Hawks, Champion Flier Brains Will Rule He Will Steal No More To Make Opera Pay

—By Arthur Brisbane—

CAPTAIN HAWKS is now the world's champion flier, and has beaten all records across this continent westward and back again.

Flying from Los Angeles to New York in 12½ hours, he beat Colonel Lindbergh's record by 2½ hours, and his engine was never "wide open" on the trip.

Describing how he "loped along at 250 miles an hour" between Albuquerque and Wichita before a tail wind, he said he hoped to make the crossing in shorter time later this fall when conditions are better. Three thousand miles in 12½ hours is not bad. At that rate of speed you could fly around the world in less than five days. Jules Verne never thought of that.

The British dirigible, R-100, is off on her homeward trip.

Jackson and O'Brine, continuing their non-stop endurance record, have flown without stopping for 25 days. They promise to go on for at least 20 days longer.

The Prince of Wales, in the air watching the British Royal Air maneuvers, was mistaken by his own fliers for "an enemy" bomber, savagely pursued and driven to the ground.

Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Co., debated the power question with Norman Thomas, able New York Socialist.

Mr. Thomas said, "A room full of men controls the nation."

Mr. Insull might have replied, "A skull full of brains controls your whole body."

The individual body will always be controlled by a small skull full of brains. And nations will be controlled, at least for many centuries, by small groups of men.

In ancient days food was usually given to anyone in need. The law allowed an expectant mother to take fruit from any orchard, none could interfere with her. Customs and laws have changed. Near Toledo, O., Elmer Tilton, 45 years old, out of work for seven months, went out with his oldest son, Lewis, aged 17, to get some food.

Unfortunately they tried the farm of Lester Coy, 23 years old, who farms single handed, supporting a blind father, and is frequently annoyed by crop thieves. He was sitting up late with a gun, when Tilton and his son began digging his potatoes. Father and son were both shot dead.

Someone else will have to supply food for Tilton's six other children.

Samuel Insull and other Chicagoans who can afford it learn that grand opera last year cost them a loss of $358,328.26.

It seems a good deal for opera, but it would be only small change for the radio.

Mr. Aylesworth, who runs the National Broadcasting Co., which you probably hear every day, pays more than $20,000,000 a year for "talent."

And great industrial concerns like General Electric spend many other millions for talent to make their advertising announcements attractive.

Chicago Opera might easily make up its deficit by letting Mr. Aylesworth broadcast the performance, with short advertising talks between the acts. The audience in the opera house need not hear the advertising and the public would be edified. Why not combine business with opera?

Doctor Swallow is dead, aged 91. Formerly a Methodist preacher, he ran for President, as a prohibition candidate, in 1904, and was ridiculed. But he lived to see prohibition the law, and to see Herbert Hoover, as a prohibition candidate, get about 23,000,000 votes, Governor Smith, on a wet platform, getting about 15,000,000 votes, many millions more than any other Democrat ever got. The [illegible] happens.

Naples, already cruelly punished, was about to celebrate with religious and other rejoicing the cessation of the earthquake visitation yesterday, when suddenly a large section of the city was struck by a savage tornado. Four are dead, six dying, many injured.

Fortunately the tornado struck early, at 6:50 a. m., while the streets were almost empty. The frightened population crowded the churches, when the tornado subsided, seeking protection, while church bells were tolled loudly, warning and summoning the people.

It was stated here, in haste, that something is the matter with the country and nobody knows what it is. Telegrams from many places mention men who know what the matter is and how to cure the trouble.

Girl's Admirer Held in Death Mystery

NEW ARREST IN VERMONT MYSTERY

"Dead" Wife Willing to Give Husband Divorce So He Can Have No. 2

By a Staff Correspondent.

Springfield, Vt., Aug. 15—A second arrest was made today in Vermont's most baffling murder mystery and identity puzzle while George J. Packard, accompanied by his "bride" of a month was brought face to face with his first wife, "buried" a year ago as the victim.

An old-fashioned parlor in the Adna Brown Hotel, headquarters of state and county investigators seeking the true identity of the girl victim and the solution of her death, was the setting for the dramatic meeting, as tense with breath-taking moments as any chapter torn from fiction.

ARRESTED AT CONCORD

While it was taking place, Robert A. "Romeo" King, sought for questioning, was placed under arrest at Concord, N. H. He will be brought here for interrogation regarding his knowledge, if any, of the true identity of the girl chloroform victim found in a pasture at Chester last August.

At the hotel here, in the presence of State's Attorney Lawrence Edgerton and State Detective Edwin C. Brown, the three sides of the strange identity triangle were joined.

Mrs. Catherine Rockwell Packard, 22, of Rutland, alleged author of a suicide note found on the body of the murder victim and believed dead until two days ago, faced her husband for the first time in 14 months.

Packard, facing her, was confronted with the woman he had identified as the victim.

MYSTERIES UNSOLVED.

Mrs. Margaret McFarland Packard, his bride at a midnight wedding a month ago, learned that she was not legally married and saw for the first time the woman she had believed dead.

Still, she clung steadfast to her new "husband," and the wife who returned from the grave signified

CHARGE 2 FIRED BACK BAY ART GALLERY

Roslindale Man Arrested; Police Claim Paintings Damaged by Fire Overvalued

Warrants, charging conspiracy to defraud an insurance company, were today issued against John T. Barton and Frank Anderson in connection with the Lincoln art gallery fire in Newbury st. July 29. Barton is the wealthy owner of the gallery.

Anderson, who lives in Ivory st., Roslindale, was arrested by Inspectors Warren Liese and Joseph Haggerty, and Barton was expected to be taken into custody shortly.

According to Police Commr. Eugene C. Hultman, investigation has revealed that the 62 pictures said to have been destroyed by the flames, and which were insured for a value of $184,250, were in reality worth not more than $2500.

The warrants were granted by Judge Francis J. Goode in Municipal court, and Commissioner Hultman pointed out this was the first time Boston police had gone into the lower court for such warrants.

He said he felt that the State police and Dist. Atty. William J. Foley had not acted promptly enough in the matter.

The commissioner said the pictures were insured with the Aetna Insurance Co., on July 10 for a specific term. Although the usual practice is to demand the payment of one month's premium, he said Barton was permitted to pay only for two weeks.

Commissioner Hultman said the investigation showed that the agent who sold the policy was introduced to Barton by a friend of the picture merchant.

He quoted the manager of the insurance company as saying he had not checked the value of the pictures, but relied on the agent.

Anderson, according to the commissioner, told police he had worked for Barton for seven months off and on, and that the ten pictures he claimed to own were turned over to him by the proprietor.

Foley Orders Roundup After Attempt to "Silence" Victims in Hospital

War was declared on Boston gangdom today by Dist. Atty. William J. Foley following a spectacular gun battle in the clubhouse of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Shirley ave., Revere, in which more than 100 shots were fired, wounding ten men, two of whom are dying.

Foley acted after six automobiles, bearing 25 or more men, closed in on Chelsea Memorial Hospital at dawn several hours after the shooting in an attempt to kidnap four of the wounded who had been taken there.

Chelsea police, hastily summoned by hospital officials, sped to the scene and routed the gangsters, who got away safely in their cars. Police believe their object was to prevent "babbling" by dying men.

One of the wounded, Joseph Donovan, was identified at the hospital as James Preston, under indictment for the murder of Paymaster Ross in the Ward Baking Company holdup in Cambridge five years ago, for which Jerry Gedzium was executed in 1927.

The shooting at the Shirley ave. house occurred when gangsters broke in on a dice and cards racket going full blast in a thickly settled residential district.

HUNT 6 WOUNDED

A feud between two leaders underlies the gunplay, police declare—a feud dating back several months, at least, and perhaps back to the slaying of "Sparky" Champa, whose bullet-riddled body was found in a Revere barn early last year.

Six of the 10 wounded vanished, and a widespread search for them is under way.

DELAY REPAIRS ON LIPTON BOAT

New London, Aug. 15—The management of Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup finds itself in a perplexing dilemma here today, and when Sir Thomas arrives from England tomorrow he may be very much surprised and annoyed to discover that his tail-sparred tea clipper has progressed hardly at all toward getting into racing trim.

The racing craft seems to have been forgotten in a mad rush to get the steam yacht Erin in shape to go down New York harbor tomorrow to meet the famous cup hunter, who is a passenger aboard the Leviathan. When Erin came off the high seas Wednesday evening she was salt-stained and battered from her 26-day battle with a tempestuous Atlantic. She had made the voyage as convoy to Shamrock was hauled out yesterday, but beyond that no work was done on her,

Fliers Sailing Aloft 52 Hrs. Past Record

St. Louis, Aug. 15 (AP)—Having announced, "We'll be down when the motor stops running," Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine today continued to circle over Lambert-St. Louis Field in their monoplane Greater St. Louis.

They had been in the air 603 hours at 3:41 p. m. (E. D. T.) today, more than 50 hours longer than the previous record for sustained flight.

Skilled mechanics turned knowing ears skyward, but refused to hazard a guess on "when the motor stops running" will be. They said they were unable to detect the slightest trace of a faltering in the engine.

While Jackson and O'Brine continued on and on, their manager, William H. Pickens, was making plans to "strike while the iron is hot."

"I'm going to take the boys on a State fair tour within two or three days after they come down," he said as he looked over a large number of offers which will spell financial reward to the airmen.

'DEAD' WIFE FACES HUSBAND AND HIS BRIDE IN DEATH MYSTERY

OFFICIALS SEEK IDENTITY OF CHLOROFORM VICTIM

her willingness to release, by divorce, the man who "buried" her.

All three disclaimed any knowledge of the girl buried and of events which led to her mysterious death. Nor could any one of the trio offer an explanation of how a suicide note identified as having been written by the first wife, came to be upon the body of the unidentified girl.

BOY RUSHES TO MOTHER

The presence of George and Catherine Packard's two children, George, 3, and Mary, 2, enhanced the emotional aspect of the drama, for their mother was seeing them for the first time since she disappeared a year ago last May.

The children, with Packard and his "bride," were in the parlor when the first wife entered with the investigators.

The "ghost wife" stood hesitating in the doorway for a long moment and nobody in the room spoke. George Jr.'s cry of greeting at reception of his mother shattered the pin-drop silence of the room. He rushed to her and flung his arms about her and, weeping, she knelt and embraced him.

"WELL, I'M STILL ALIVE"

Wife No. 1 then walked past her husband and his "bride" without a word and bent down to hug her baby daughter. Mary did not appear to know her.

She stood again and glanced about the room. First at her husband and then at her husband's new "wife." She smiled and, referring to where Packard stood, held out her hand.

"Well, George, I'm still alive," she said.

He either ignored or did not see her outstretched hand. He did not speak.

She turned then to the second Mrs. Packard and the two women appraised each other without speaking.

Finally the "bride" said:

THEN THEY SHAKE HANDS

"I love George. I don't care what is said about him. I know he is a victim of circumstances. Nothing can separate us."

Later, Packard and his first wife were left alone with the authorities and both broke down and shook hands. The wife told him:

"I will try to get a divorce. I do not want to stand in your way if you think you will be happy with your new wife. I would like to have the children, but if your mother prefers to keep them I guess it will be all right."

King, an admitted admirer of the first Mrs. Packard following her estrangement from her husband, surrendered to Police Chief John Kimball at Concord when he read in the newspapers he was wanted for questioning in the death mystery. He was hooked as a suspicious person there and Sheriff Ernest Schoenfeld left by automobile to bring him back here.

FRIEND OF WIFE 30 YRS.

To Chief Kimball he denied any knowledge of the mystery death, admitted he had known Mrs. Packard No. 1 eight or nine months and that he had seen her at Manchester, N. H., a week ago.

According to Mrs. Catherine Packard he was one of her companions on an auto tour of the South and West which started from Manchester a short time after the body, later identified as hers, was discovered at Chester, seven miles from here. The others are sought for questioning in the same connection. They are:

Miss Enza King of Hancock, N. H., sister of "Romeo" King.

Miss Nilda Waldridge of Cornish, N. H., a former Springfield girl, once thought to have been the victim.

Hank Smith, a resident of Springfield.

Packard arrived here this morning after Detective Brown had nearly given up hope that he was coming. His failure to appear last night, following a telephone conversation from St. Albans with the State investigator, was followed by the report that he was missing.

The state and county activities toward a solution of the mystery did not let up even during the night. Mrs. Catherine Packard, under arrest as a material witness, was grilled until 3:42 a. m. at which time, State's Atty. Edgerton and Detective Brown admitted that there was no change in her story.

NOTE DATED NEW YORK

She reiterated that the suicide note found on the body was similar in text to one she wrote at a hospital here while in training to be a nurse in June of last year, following her disappearance.

While the note found is dated "New York, June, 1929," she said hers was dated "Troy, New York, June, 1929." Why, while at Springfield, she had put any New York date line on it she could not explain, nor could she say why she had not signed it.

Detective Brown's opinion that the note is in her own hand was borne out by a decision of William F. Kingston, Boston handwriting expert.

So far as can be determined, the "ghost wife" has not been in Troy, N. Y., since just before her marriage in 1926, when she was in training there at an orphanage. She admits having written another suicide note at that time.

SEEK VICTIM'S IDENTITY

Another activity during the night was the visit of Sheriff Schoenfeld to the Chester farm, where the body was found. He was accompanied by Robert Fields, who discovered the decomposed remains, and after an examination of the territory for the first light again expressed the opinion that murder, not suicide, was the death cause.

So far as can be determined, the "ghost wife" has not been in Troy, N. Y., since just before her marriage in 1925 when she was in training there at an orphanage. She admits having written another suicide note at that time.

New efforts to identify the girl whose grave bears the name of Mrs. Catherine N. Packard were made by Brown this morning. He sent telegrams to the police of Troy and Albany, N. Y., and to authorities at Washington, asking that a check be made of missing girl records of last year.

The Washington clue lies in a partially obliterated dressmaker label, lettered "Pennsylvania ave," which is on a chloroform bottle found by the victim's side.

HIS MOTHER'S STORY

Packard's mother, with her son's children by her side, told the following story of her son's two marriages:

"George and Catherine were married when he was only 17, hardly more than a schoolboy. They were of opposite types. Catherine always quiet, George fond of dancing and other entertainments which kept him out late at night, even after the marriage.

"I spoke to George on several occasions about this and asked him why he did not stay home nights and his answer was always that Catherine was satisfied.

"One night I scolded him in front of Catherine and she made no effort to defend him even then. I could see that they were drifting farther apart.

CATHERINE GOES AWAY

"On April 15, 1926, Catherine came to me and told me she was going away. I asked her if she was going for good and she only shrugged her shoulders. She told me she was looking for a place to board the two children and I offered to keep them.

"I know that she went to Springfield. After a few months he began to write to me and ask about Catherine and if I had heard where she was and what she was doing.

"He told me to write to her friends and inquire from them of her whereabouts. I complied with his request, but received no information.

"He intimated to me that he was interested in another girl.

"Then the body was found in Chester. I did not think anything of it till one day a friend suggested that it might be the body of Catherine. I wrote to Chester and asked for a description of the clothing—that was last May —and I received the information and forwarded it to George.

SAID IT WAS HIS WIFE

"George called up with the officials and after some time identified the body as Catherine's.

"What worried me the most was whether Catherine had committed suicide or been murdered.

"Time went on and George became more and more interested in the girl at St. Albans.

"On July 13, George and Miss McFarland came to my home in Rutland. That night, about 11:30, when I was going to bed, he came into my room and showed me a ring. I asked him if it was an engagement ring and he said, 'No, ma, it's a wedding ring.' Then to my great surprise he announced he was to be married at midnight.

"I voiced slight objection but he said nothing could come between him and Miss McFarland.

"Then, with George's father, they went out in an auto and were married. Complete details of the ceremony are unknown to me even today."

Mayor Phones Sons at Sea on Leviathan

With a wait of only six minutes, Mayor James M. Curley last night telephoned to his three sons on board the Leviathan, 930 miles out of New York.

According to the mayor, not only was the call put through with remarkable rapidity but the conversation was carried on with an entire absence of static.

The mayor said the boys, James M., Jr., Paul and Leo, returning from a visit to England, are guests of Sir Thomas Lipton on his way to watch his latest Shamrock attempt to lift the "mug," as he calls the yachting cup.

"It was positively uncanny," said the mayor, commenting on the telephone talk.

"It sounded as though the boys were in the next room. I talked first with James M., Jr., then with Paul and then with Leo, after which my daughter, Mary, and son George exchanged greetings with them.

"The Leviathan was 930 miles out of New York, but there was absolutely no static, and it took only six minutes to put the call through. I was amazed when the operator rang me and said the parties were ready to talk.

"I talked with them before by telephone at their hotel in Piccadilly Circus, London, and had no trouble at all. We certainly live in a wonderful age."

the following from the steamship Cameronia:

"Friday, 3:11 p.m., G.M.T. (11:11 a. m., E. D. T.).—In communication by radio with the R-100 apparently 70 miles SSW of our position, 53.58 north, 27.07 west. Weather overcast; SSW wind.

"GEMMELL, Master."

The position given was virtually on the Great Circle, and it indicated the British dirigible had progressed well beyond the halfway point on her 3287-mile return voyage to England from Canada.

The message was the first direct communication from the airship since 4.45 a. m., E. D. T., when it was said she had barely escaped a storm by dropping to a lower altitude where cross winds forced her to reduce speed to 52 miles an hour.

Union Man as Labor Secretary Urged

ABANDON HOPE FOR MINERS

Princeton, B. C., Aug. 15 (AP)—Hope was practically abandoned early today for the 46 miners entombed by an explosion in the Blakeburn mine at Coalmont for more than 24 hours.

Despite fading hopes rescue parties continued to work strenuously to reach the entombed men.

While the main fan broken by the blast had been repaired and put to work, air in the tunnels was so laden with poisonous gases that the rescuers were able to work only in short shifts. Gas masks and other safety equipment were employed.

The bodies of two hoist men, Albert Cole, 18, and Clifford Smith, 40, were brought out shortly after the explosion. Their deaths were pronounced due to "after damp," a deadly mine gas. One man was rescued alive.

Talks to Sons at Sea

WITH NO MORE DIFFICULTY than if he had called for a number in the Boston area, Mayor James M. Curley talked by telephone with his three sons, Paul, Leo and James M. Curley, Jr., passengers on the liner Leviathan, 930 miles at sea. The three boys are returning after touring Europe. (Staff photo.)

Rockford, Ill., Bootlegger Shot in Mistake for Another, Police Believe

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—The sinister shadow of gangland spreads over the Middle West.

Three dead near St. Paul, Minn., another ringed by machine gunners at Rockford, Ill., and new slayings at Detroit and Chicago add weight to the belief that the hoodlum element is scattering.

The first tangible evidence that organized outlawry is seeking new territories for its rackets, liquor, gambling and vice, is the usual symbol of the gangsters—a bullet pierced body, shot from behind.

The latest victim is Joe Giovingo, Rockford bootlegger, killed instantly by a stream of bullets that poured from an automobile speeding through one of the town's main streets, last night. Eleven bullets were fired into Giovingo's body, but police felt sure they were intended for Tommy Abbott, well known Chicago gangster, who stood nearby.

Abbott, described by police as one of the chief executioners for the Moran gang, was one of the many suspects in two of Chicago's recent gang killings—the slaying of Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, and the subsequent killing of Jack Zuta, vice overlord.

Northerners Flee, Abandoning Large Stores of War Supplies

Hankow, Aug. 15 (AP)—An official Nationalist Government communique today said that Nanking troops this morning recaptured Tsinan, important North China city.

The northern army was reported fleeing northward and leaving behind large quantities of ammunition and supplies.

The communique added that on the Lunghai front Marshal Feng Yu Hsiang's left wing was badly defeated early today and that the capture of Changchow and Kaifeng was expected shortly.

Fr. Corbett of Boston Arrives Safely at Canton

Shanghai, Aug. 15 (INS)—It was reported from Canton today that 12 American missionaries, including the Rev. 10 Men Shot, 2 Dying in Revere Gang War of a promised roundup of North End gunmen, hijackers, racketeers and shady characters of all sorts.

Morris Lerner of Home st., Malden, and Carmello Guiffree, who he believed, by once to have been "put on the spot" as the aftermath of a shooting in the South End in June, are the two that hospital officials say will die.

Guiffree is also known as "Goofer" Campbell and as James Riley in the North End, according to the police.

The others at Chelsea Memorial Hospital are Frank Pearson, Lawson, of the same address as Lerner, and Harry Goldstein of Shirley ave., Revere.

FEUD OVER POOL

The wives of Lerner and Donovan clashed in the hospital in a taxicab from Malden early this morning and remained at the bedside of their husbands.

Although facing a wall of silence, police gathered information from various sources which indicated the prelude to the torrid gun battle was a row several months ago over operation of a "nigger pool."

A North End man who has figured in several shooting affrays said in substance that he had his own designated territory in disposing of tickets in the lottery.

There was a wordy argument, then threats, and when the "trespassing" continued the other participants in the pool racket determined to "rub him out." Guns blazed as the trespasser and a friend stepped from the doorway of a hotel in the South End, one June morning, and for several weeks the pair lay at death's door.

Police asked the usual question, "Who did it?" Received the usual answer—stolid silence, accompanied by threats to "get the baby myself."

Guiffree had three fingers shot off his left hand when gangsters fired on him, but never a word in a few weeks ago.

Near midnight last night, police believe, two souped loads of gangsters started from the North End for Revere. Reaching the house on Shirley ave., opposite the Crescent Beach railroad station, where the shooting occurred, they quietly forced the outer door.

They went directly to the clubrooms leased by the Revere Veterans' Association. Over the door of the quarters hung a sign reading "Glendale Associates." The door was four inches thick.

This door was not opened. The arriving gangsters either had entrance or were let in by a confederate on the inside.

Police say Lerner and Guiffree were at odds, although it appeared that both men were at the card table or at the "shaved" pool table shooting craps when the gunmen reached the place.

They fired, guns leveled. The score or more persons inside ducked for cover. The card table was tipped over, but not quickly enough, for Revere police later found a large pool of blood beside it, and two decks of blood-soaked cards nearby.

Walls spattered with blood and drilled with revolver bullets told the story of the desperate battle that was waged.

Fourteen shots found their marks in the four men who are at the hospital. A score more bullets plugged the walls. Probably 100 shots in all were fired, police say.

A trail of blood led from the card table to the door, another from a window tothe door. The main room of the quarters was a shambles.

WOMAN GAVE TIP

A 30-calibre automatic pistol, a duplicate of the same size bore and the broken-off barrel of another revolver were found by the police and taken to Revere headquarters as evidence.

The gateway was thorough. The first intimation police had of the desperate warfare was a telephone call from a woman residing nearby. Later someone at the Chelsea Memorial Hospital notified the Chelsea police that several wounded men had been brought in.

Revere police, rushing to the scene, found none of the gangsters or gamblers in the vicinity.

Investigation led to the disclosure of information that a craps game with thousands of dollars at stake has been conducted there every Thursday night for some time under the leadership of a Boston gambler, who is thought to have been one of the wounded men who disappeared.

Police also received an anonymous "tip" that Guiffre knew he had been "put on the spot," but, as he expressed it, he refused to "sag out," preferring to take his medicine if it was coming to him, in accord with the reputed practice of gangland.

Patrolman William C. Gibson of Revere police, who is commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post which has quarters in the building, was on patrol on a delay beat in that section of the city, said today that his organization had nothing to do with letting rooms to the so-called veterans' association.

He admitted that some members of his post were also members of the Glendale Associates, whose sign hangs over the door of the arena where the gangster-gamblers battled.

RUSH TO HOSPITAL

When Sergt. Valentine P. Elmore of Chelsea was notified by an attache of the hospital that wounded men had been taken there, he dispatched a squad of officers.

En route to the hospital, they found Guiffree, lying in a pool of blood in a Grove st. gutter at the rear of the hospital and at the foot of Bellingham hill.

They carried him in as the fourth patient.

Four Revere youths who took the injured to the hospital were questioned, but police could learn nothing from them.

The four, Morris Bernstein of Sumner st., John A. Sullivan of Herbert st., Charles Lidz of Shirley ave., and James Moreno of Everett st., all Revere, said the injured were bundled into their car as they passed and a curt order was given to take the men to the hospital.

Prosperity Hits Town Where Lindy Courted Anne

Cuernavaca, Mexico, Aug. 15 (AP) —This once sleepy little city where Col. Charles A. Lindbergh courted Anne Morrow and, before him, Cortes, Maximilian, Carlota and De La Borda romanced, is awakening from a half dozen centuries of repose, its quiet disturbed by the hammer and saw of the builder.

Cuernavaca, within a year, has developed a tourist consciousness, a popularity previously unknown, until an influx of visitors unheard of and until now unwanted.

The result is a building boom of modern week-end houses to care for the hundreds of tourists, largly American.

Ada Louise Comstock Praises Modern Youth

Moorhead, Minn., Aug. 15—Modern youth is enthusiastic, interested in reaching a set goal, and not bored with life in general, declared Miss Ada Louise Comstock, only woman member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission and president of Radcliffe College, in an interview here.

Ada L. Comstock

"I believe our students are more interested in attaining high goals through education than ever before in history," she said. "Students at Radcliffe, I have observed, are constantly endeavoring to attain the highest honors.

Lina Basquette May Sue for Divorce

Los Angeles, Aug. 15—Along with her other troubles, Lina Basquette, motion picture actress and premiere dancause, who attempted suicide by drinking poison last Wednesday, expects to be sued for divorce by her husband, Peverell Marley, motion picture cameraman whom she married 18 months ago.

Lina Basquette

Recover ing from her attempted suicide, Miss Basquette was visited today by Marley and his attorney and informed of the contemplated action, charging her with mental cruelty.

A silver lining in the cloud of melancholia which caused her to attempt to take her own life, appeared however. Her four-year-old daughter, whose continued absence in New York with her uncle, precipitated the death attempt, may be returned to her, Miss Basquette learned.

MOORE IN NEW HAMPSHIRE G. O. P. RACE FOR GOVERNOR AS WET

MORRILL AND WINANT HIS OPPONENTS

Chemist Candidate Charges Prohibition Has Debased Honesty in Nation

By a Staff Correspondent

Concord, N. H., Aug. 15—In the neighboring State of Maine, Dugald B. Dewar ran for United States senator on a wet ticket and landed, for a time, in the hoosegow.

Here in a State, also so politically dry that it cracks on a hot day, Hugh Kelsea Moore is running on a wet platform for the Republican nomination for governor. Believe THAT or not.

Without any invidious comparison to our Maine neighbor, Moore is quite some man. Who's Who in America gives one-half column to him. He is one of the most distinguished chemists in America, though he never yet has been called upon to analyze a pint of that liquid which is the cause of America's most common salutation:

"Don't be afraid of it; it's good stuff."

IS EXPERT CHEMIST

Moore is the chemical consultant of the Berlin paper mills. One line of Who's Who says of him, "Mem. Am. Inst. Chem. Engrs. (pres. 1925-26)" and that ought to be enough to get him an invitation to the White House if not to the local State House.

Being a chemist, Moore attacks the liquor problem not from the scientific content, but from the moral and political philosophy of it. It has debased honesty, he claims, has set deceit on a high pedestal and has deprived man of his inalienable political right to heft a stein or two—or three or four. If he gets the cider-drinking vote of the state, and the bootleggers who want to keep the country dry stay at home on primary day, he expects to win the nomination.

The other contestants are John G. Winant, who once graced the governor's chair, and Arthur P. Morrill of this city, who, in his long service in the Senate and House, is personally acquainted with every law on the statute books and with many which would have been on if Winant had not vetoed them.

BASS BACKS WINANT

Winant has the backing of Robert P. Bass, which confirms the suspicion that he is regarded as a progressive, not an insurgent. Republican, quite anathema to the Old Guard. Mr. Morrill is a regular as any right-day clock on the mantlepiece of the farmhouse sitting room.

Fireworks? Not yet, only this: Mr. Morrill's real estate firm sold a client's estate to the city and later donated $2000 as a gift to the city treasurer, which the local paper branded as "a conscience gift." Mr. Morrill promptly sued the paper and the paper retaliates by counting the stickers on automobile windshields and reporting that the "vast majority" are for Winant.

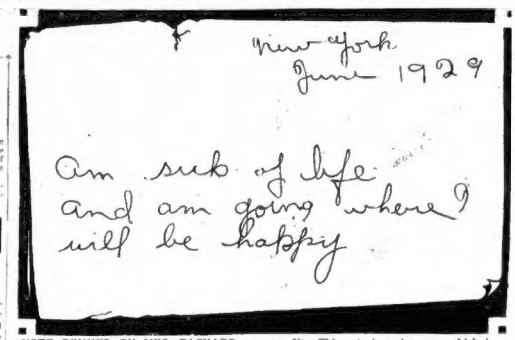
Senator Henry Wilder Keyes will win the Republican nomination again, and again without contest.

Q. yes, the Democrats. Henry Hollis' fine progressivism still runs rampantly through them but they say, with the utmost of frankness, they see no chance of capturing either of the two big spots on the cards.

Accordingly, they are disposed to let Frederic E. Small of Rochester take a licking for governor, to dig up some window-dressing candidate for the senatorship and to confine their earnest endeavors to the capture of many seats in the Senate and House where they could, at least, block much of the reactionary legislation sought by "the predatory interests."

"Suicide" Who Came to Life May Hold Key to Death Mystery That Puzzles All Vermont

A YEAR AFTER HER "SUICIDE" was recorded, Mrs. Catherine R. Packard is shown being questioned by Sheriff Ernest M. Schoenfeld of Windsor County, Vt., and State Detective Edward Brown of Montpelier at Springfield, Vt.



NOTE PENNED BY MRS. PACKARD so experts could compare handwriting with note found on body of woman in pasture at Chester, Vt. This note is a clue upon which investigators place great importance in their quest for the identity of the dead woman.

CLOTHING ON BODY found in picture, chloroform and iodine bottles and a horseshoe pin found near it are articles which may help solve the mystery. (Staff photos.)

Episcopalians Back Birth Control Plan

London, Aug. 15 (AP)—The stamp of Episcopal approval was placed today upon birth control.

One of the resolutions passed by the Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops, which has set for five weeks under the chairmanship of the Archbishop of Canterbury, declared:

"Where there is a clearly felt moral obligation to limit or avoid parenthood, the method must be decided on Christian principles.

"The primary and obvious method is a life of discipline and self-control. Nevertheless in those cases where there is such a clearly felt moral obligation to limit or avoid parenthood the conference agrees that other methods may be used, provided this is done in the light of the same Christian principles."

The resolution obtained, only over bitter opposition of the high church prelates, and those from the overseas branches of church. It was passed by a vote of 193 to 67.

While thus approving birth control the conference condemned divorce.

TWO SEIZED IN EXTORTION

Nashua, N. H., Aug. 15 (AP)—William Magwood, 21, and Harry Leaor, 23, of Hudson, N. H., accused of engineering an extortion scheme involving Charles E. Moir of Nashua, pleaded not guilty and were held in bail of $2000 each today on charges of blackmail. The cases were continued until Aug. 19.

They also faced charges of carrying concealed weapons and were held in $300 bail.

According to police, the vigilance of Officer Peter Caron resulted in the arrest of the pair before the intended victim had complained of it.

Moir, Wednesday, found a letter awaiting him in which threats of harm of himself, his family or his property were made an alternative for paying over to the blackmailers the sum of $500 on Aug. 15. Police action led to the arrests.

ARREST 4 IN CHECK CASES

Springfield, Aug. 15 (AP)—Two youths were arrested here today and the father of one of them and a woman companion were arrested later in Greenfield, the male members of the quartet being charged according to local police, in spreading worthless checks in this city, Hartford, Ct., Miami, Fla., and other cities.

Edward Govatsos, 22, Boston and Creswick J. Young, 16, of Wilbraham ave., pleaded guilty in court to charges of vagrancy and larceny by means of worthless checks. Arthur J. Young, father of one of the boys, and Alice Burrell of Philadelphia were charged with a statutory offense.

State of Maine Has 13,000 Unemployed

Washington, Aug. 15 (INS)—The State of Maine has 13,244 unemployed persons in a population of 800,556, the Bureau of Census announced today. This is 1.70 per cent of the State's population.

'NO ALLIANCES,' SAYS CURTIS

Providence, R. I., Aug. 15 (AP)—Vice-President Charles Curtis received the acclamation of hundreds of persons here today as he rode in an auto parade from a hotel in a theater to receive an honorary degree at commencement of the Bryant-Stratton College of Business Administration.

He was escorted by Governor Norman S. Case and United States Senator Jesse H. Metcalf with a police bodyguard. Flags were displayed throughout the business center.

Mr. Curtis, at the exercises, said that although the United States does not be drawn into entangling alliances with other countries.

Arm Torn Off by Auto; Winchester Man Asks $50,000

Portland, Me., Aug. 15—A suit for $50,000 has been filed in this city against Clement Brothers, Inc., by George L. Tomlinson, 2d, of Winchester, Mass., whose arm was torn off by a truck as he was driving through Ogunquit. Tomlinson who first felt a numbness and then discovered his arm was gone, went back and found it down the road.

CRASH OF AUTOS STARTS FLOOD

Cambridge residents in the vicinity of Albany st. and Massachusetts ave. were donning rubber boots this morning as the result of a small flood, which swept down on them unexpectedly when a water hydrant was snapped off at the base.

The hydrant was demolished when a sedan operated by Paul Cregg of 53 Bay State rd., Somerville, and a truck operated by William Long of 26 Carver rd., East Watertown, came into a collision, the sedan striking the hydrant.

The flood continued for 30 minutes until the water supply was cut off. The truck is owned by Charles Bowen of 543 Commercial wharf. Slippery streets was responsible for the crash, according to police.

CATHEDRAL IN MEXICO OPENS

Mexico City, Aug. 15 (AP)—The bells of Mexico's national cathedral rang out today, calling the people to service for the first time in more than four years, in celebration of the Feast of the Assumption.

Thousands attended the cathedral in a stately procession that gave the plaza, which the edifice faces, the greatest activity since the closing of the massive building in July, 1926.

It was four years and 15 days since the cathedral doors swung shut, when the priests left their churches at the outbreak of the religious troubles. Although the church and state disputes were settled 14 months ago, and churches started reopening, the cathedral remained closed for repairs.

DROUTH RELIEF UP TO RITCHIE

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Administration officials said today that no state suffering from the drouth would be left out of the relief organization agreed upon at the governors' conference if officials of the state desired to be included in the co-operative setup.

Commenting on a statement of Gov. Ritchie of Maryland that his state had been "ignored" at the meeting, officials said executives of the states invited to the meeting were chosen because their states were believed to have been the hardest hit.

It was emphasized, however, that President Hoover left the way open for other states to enter the relief organization when he said:

"Each Governor who considers that a situation requiring emergency relief exists within his state shall create a drouth relief committee."

Ritchie had said that Maryland was among states seriously affected by the drouth and should have been represented.

Vets in Hospitals to Have Talkies Now

Washington, Aug. 15—U. S. veterans in government hospitals throughout the country soon will have "talkies" instead of the old silent type of picture, the Veterans' Bureau has announced. The first of the new systems will go into operation at Mt. Alto Diagnostic Center here today.

Skidding Truck Knocks Car Into Hydrant

THERE WAS CONSIDERABLE excitement at Massachusetts ave. and Albany st., Cambridge, today, when truck hit this car, which in turn was thrown into a fire hydrant, breaking the hydrant. No one was injured. (Staff photo.)

Man Is Killed in Tunnel at Holden

Holden, Aug. 15 (AP)—Roger Varnon, about 21, of White Valley, was killed at Shaft 4 of the Metropolitan water tunnel project today while piloting a motor train 300 feet underground. He started from Shaft 4 and when the train reached the heading he was missing. A search revealed his body on the tracks.

Consul Tries to Die After Woman Calls

Oporto, Portugal, Aug. 15 (AP)—Dr. Adhemar De Mello, Brazilian consul, lay at death's door in a hospital here today after an attempt at suicide in a strange and dramatic setting. The staff of his hotel said early last evening a smartly dressed woman, unknown to them, called to see the consul.

Lindy in Capital to Receive Medal

Washington, Aug. 15—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was called to the White House today to receive from President Hoover the special congressional gold medal struck at the direction of Congress in recognition of his aviation feats.

Dry Agents Nab 26 in Indiana Raids

Terre Haute, Aug. 15 (INS)—Twenty-six Terre Haute residents were in the clutches of the Federal law here today, following the second raid here this year by a force of more than 50 prohibition agents.

Shrouded in the deepest mystery, all the Indiana enforcement units were mobilized at Paris, Ill., and swooped down on Terre Haute at the zero hour. The raiders were split into squads which staged raids simultaneously.

All the prisoners were placed under bonds ranging from $2000 to $5000.

Trial of Coal Mine Bombers Postponed

Dixon, Ky., Aug. 15 (AP)—The examining trials of Paul Montgomery, Estel Grant and Ewing Riley, charged with having dropped nine bombs on the coal fields here last Monday, were postponed in county court today.

Montgomery, who confessed that he piloted the plane, still is held at Murphysboro, Ill., and Grant and Riley, two striking miners, are at liberty in $5000 bonds each.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

Why are there so many musty croakers around, mourning that boys of today are not as good as boys of two generations gone by?

Let me say, as manager of a Boy Scout camp, that I have found such good material in boys under my charge this summer that I am driven to break forth into public print against the wail that the new generation of boys are below par in morals.

They are not! You get intimate with them. You trust them. You play with them, and I am convinced from my experience that we are facing in the new generation a splendid type of humanity. Don't knock the boys, but boost them!

She Says Health Winner Is Losing Joys of Life

Editor Boston American:

Over two weeks ago your paper announced that Miss Florence Smock, 18 years, of Eustis, Florida, won the title of being the nation's healthiest girl in a contest, where 400,000 competed for this distinction, under the auspices of the Agricultural Department.

Her recipe for health is: A lot of outdoor exercise, plenty of vegetables with citrus food, meat only once a week, nine hours sleep every night, no tobacco, no alcohol.

She is pronounced 98.71 per cent perfect by physicians. Why take all the joy out of life for the sake of being healthy when at any moment your life may be snuffed out by an auto? I am going to live as I please as I only live once.

MARY T. NAUGHTON.

Walk Through Boston Shows City Not "Wet"

Editor Boston American:

A speaker at a meeting in Boston last week said Boston was "WET TO THE CORE." Is it?

To disprove this, I spent three hours walking around the Hub. I began down on Atlantic ave., went towards the North Station, then into the West End and North End, passed through a section of Hanover st., through Salem st. and some of the streets adjoining, passed through three large department stores on Washington and Tremont sts., afterwards took a car at the subway for the Back Bay.

Then I walked through several sections of the Back Bay. It was late in the afternoon and I found just one person on a stoop in one of the streets of that part of Boston, who had in him some of that "Jersey lightning," as they used to call it in the old days before prohibition. Boston is not Wet.

Seeks Play Area Other Than Street for Children

Editor Boston American:

Here is something to think about. Over 100,000 children were injured last year while playing in the street, according to a statement made by Margaretta Willis Reeve, president of the International Federation of Home and School.

This was quoted before a number of social service workers in Boston during the past week. Where is the remedy for this?

Parents, teachers and others should caution children not to play in the streets, even in country towns as well as in cities. Warning notices should be put up to this effect in every street at certain intervals. Never mind the cost. A child's loss is worth more than money. If these children died from diphtheria, what a cry would go up from every quarter of the United States. Can we not do something effective to prevent this?

He Objects to Women Dictating Style for Men

Editor Boston American:

Is it vulgar for a man to appear on Boston streets without a coat?

A woman high up in social customs looked me straight in the eye and with an angelic tone in her voice declared that a man without a coat in the streets of Boston was no gentleman.

"How about a woman appearing in flimsy frippery on a hot summer day under the same conditions," was my reply.

"That is a different matter. Woman has the right to dress as she pleases. Women are the dictators of dress for both sexes" was flung back at me.

Say! This is a new idea to me. Women telling men how to dress and insisting upon it.

Minister Turns Police Officer to Do Good

Editor Boston American:

William N. Nouton of Seattle, who left the ministry some time ago, to become a police officer in that city, has been visiting friends in Greater Boston.

He returned this week. When asked why he left the ministry to become a police officer, he replied: "Because I can accomplish more good in this position."

If he were a police officer in Boston, he would be subjected to more fatal shots than were ever fired at him in the pulpit by the fault-finding congregations.

HUDSON-ESSEX LOWERS PRICE

Price reductions, ranging from $65 to $335, on new Hudson and Essex automobiles was announced today by the Henley-Kimball Co., local distributors.

"These new prices," said C. L. Nutter, general manager, "establish the most attractive prices on our cars that we have had for a long time and establish the Hudson 8 as the lowest priced 8 in America. These prices enable us to offer a Hudson 8 for $885.

"The Hudson is also the world's largest selling 8, first in every competitive event entered, national and international. The price of an Essex coach is now $650 list, which surpasses values in all Essex history. Already a great value, this price gives it a sensational position as the greatest dollar for dollar value ever accomplished."

PORT OF BOSTON IN REVIEW

By CARL MORRISON

Harbor interests seem to be in accord with Police Commissioner Hultman's stand that the city needlessly is spending $185,000 for a new police boat.

Many shippers believe that two or three 50-foot high speed boats, able to travel quickly to all points in either deep or shallow water, would be more economical and efficient.

The commissioner has pointed out that the contract was awarded before he took office, otherwise he would have refused to commit the city to such a large sum. He feels that $50,000 or $75,000 would be more reasonable for the project, and is willing to consider any proposition to sell the "baby elephant" and put the cash into other usage.

Tow boat men say that the patrol boat might be of value in tug work, as she is being equipped with 700 horsepower, three-cylinder triple-expansion reciprocating engines.

TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

The subject of today's harbor sketch is Frederick Foster, marine lawyer and prominent Maritime Association member, 84 State st.

Foster, who is a Maryland man, has been practicing law for 28 years and has handled marine cases of national prominence. He is a member of the American Bar Association and of the Maryland Court of Appeals, as well as local and State bar associations.

In past years Foster has been active in upbuilding the harbor and gave much of his time to port development projects. He is still keenly interested in harbor affairs.

TO THE RACES

Several hundred Bostonians will have an opportunity to attend the international yacht races next month. The steamer Northland of the Eastern line will carry excursionists from Boston for short trips. The schedule includes leaving Boston at 8 p. m. on September 12 and 13, and returning the following Sundays. The vessel will also leave on Monday, September 15, and Wednesday, September 17, on the same mission.

COAST GUARD ITEMS

Until further notice, Coast Guard recruiting will be restricted to radiomen who have had experience in either the Coast Guard or U. S. Navy, and also to men who are re-enlisting within three months.

The Coast Guard made an excellent showing in the rifle competition at Wakefield recently. The two teams carried off third and fourth places, not far behind the crack Marine teams. The Coast Guard has had this team only two years, and will have representation at Camp Perry.

RAPS DRY LAW 'STOOL PIGEON'

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Prohibition hobbed up again in capital discussions today.

A Washington Board of Trade report portrayed for the law enforcement commission complaints of "lawless conduct" by federal prohibition agents, listing employment of "disreputable persons as stool pigeons and informers" as one of the worst features.

Representative LaGuardia of New York, a Republican wet New leader, suggested the Department of Justice be given every facility for a last attempt to enforce the dry law.

"If they fail," he said, "I think the country should expect from them a fair, frank statement to Congress that it can't be done."

Troopers Hunt for Missing Man, 80

FLAYS DRY LAW AS 'MISTAKE'

Newport, R. I., Aug. 15 (AP)—Repeal of the 18th amendment is the "only way out" of the evils of prohibition, former U. S. Senator James A. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York, declared here in a speech before the Newport branch of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

"It is not a question of you and me taking a drink," he said, "but one of decent, orderly government, underneath which lies the tragedy of what will become of that government."

He characterized ratification of the 18th amendment as a "ghastly mistake," and charged that "the hypocrisy of those who vote dry and drink wet exists in both Houses of Congress and in every State Legislature in the Union."

MAINE STATION IN AIR DEBUT

Rockland, Me., Aug. 15—The new Cushing radio station, WAG, operated by the Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co., and sixth of its type in the United States, went on the air yesterday with formal exercises under the direction of George W. Hanson, chief construction engineer.

The switch connecting the plant with the high-tension wires was thrown by Jerome Burrows, a direct descendant of the owner of the ancient farmhouse in which the plant is located. Municipal Judge Frank B. Miller and Mayor Charles M. Richardson of Rockland pushed the buttons which started the two sets in operation and a general message was sent to all ships in the North Atlantic. The plant cost $100,000.

Slain Girl's Father to Sue Her Employers

Portland, Me., Aug. 15 — A unique court fight will be instituted at the September term of the Cumberland County Superior Court when Alexander MacDonald, father of Lillian L. MacDonald, who was slain in the basement of the building of Loring Short and Herman, and her body cremated in the furnace, will bring a $5000 action against her employers.

It must be

to upset them so!

ALLSTATE Tires have rolled from coast to coast on a tidal wave of popularity. This success is the result of dollar for dollar value unrivalled at any price. Naturally it causes tire manufacturers the country over to raise a howl about "Mail Order" tires, so called. They advertise tires at the "same low price" you pay for ALLSTATE. But—they fail to tell you that these other tires are known as "second line" brands . . . and that ALLSTATE tires are "first line", proven superior in every detail.

When you buy tires, compare quality as well as price. To aid you in doing this, we list those brands which we feel are deserving enough in quality to be compared with ALLSTATE.

COMPARE THE ALLSTATE WITH THESE "FIRST LINE" TIRES:

WRITE A 'HUMORAD'!

(A "Humorad" is any advertisement rewritten in humorous vein without offense to advertiser or reader.)

2 MORE DAYS,

Today and Saturday,

to win a cash prize award!

All entries must be postmarked before Sunday midnight, August 17th.

If you did not win theater tickets with your first "Humorad" try it again. Send in one or a dozen. Write them from any of the ads appearing in today's or yesterday's issue of the Boston Evening American. It's lots of fun. All you require is your brains, a sense of humor, a pencil, some paper, and a two-cent stamp.

Five daily prizes of two tickets each for Joe Cook's new all-talking Columbia picture, "Rain or Shine" (appearing at the R. K. O. Keith theater beginning tomorrow, Saturday, August 16th), are given for the best five "Humorads" every day.

You are invited to rewrite any advertisement (classified or display), or any part of any advertisement, in this issue of the Boston American in your own "Joe Cook" style and manner. Then submit your "Humorad" in competition for the cash prizes. Men, women and children are eligible. Send in as many as you wish.

[Remember—write as humorously as you wish without offense to advertiser or reader. Prize-winning "Humorads" will be published in the Boston Evening American and broadcast over Station WHDH.]

and here's how it's done!

(THE ORIGINAL AD)

Before you start on your trip, whether it be planned for along the Riviera or in the scenic beauty spots of America, outfit yourself with new luggage here.

You will be proud to own the luggage you secure from this shoppe. We have been outfitters to fastidious travelers since 1850.

Joe Cook wants to see just how many people in Boston possess a striking sense of humor. Here is a three-fold opportunity.

1. To compete for the awards, you will rewrite any advertisement, or any part of any large advertisement in this issue of the Boston Evening American as Joe Cook would write it. (Example of rewritten ad shown at right). Put your name and address on your Humorad.
2. When you have done this, mail your entry to Joe Cook, "Rain or Shine Humorad Editor," Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, as soon as possible.
3. All entries must be postmarked before midnight, August 17, at midnight.
4. The nine most humorous advertisements will receive cash prizes as follows:

1st Prize . . $50
3rd Prize . . $10
4th Prize . . $5
and
5 Awards of $2

5. The five best Humorads received each day will entitle the writer to two (2) tickets of admission to see Joe Cook in the Columbia Picture, "Rain or Shine" at R. K. O. Keith's Theatre during the seven-day period, beginning Saturday, August 16.
6. You may write as many Humorads as you wish. There is no limit to the number of entries.

(THE "HUMORAD")

What, You Ask? Ahhh! That's It!

Value, maybe, but perhaps that's not all. Anything else you find you can keep—but this is no promise.

Wherever you are leaving for—Montauk-on-the-Frankfort or Mudflats-By-the-Sea — inspect our lines, and hear it, boo!

Everyone will turn around and look at your luggage if you buy it here and you will blush, but with pride. We specialize in trunks for elephants, proving that no order is too big for us. We have nothing to "hide."

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

FOR SPORTS—CALL LIBERTY 4000 — FRIDAY, AUGUST 15, 1930 — FOR SPORTS—CALL LIBERTY 4000

American Public Will Root for Shamrock V

Mr. Boston expects to find American sport followers rooting for the success of Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht Shamrock V, in the international cup races next month.

"I believe everybody will give a cheer if Sir Thomas Lipton is successful in his bid for the famous yachting trophy," said Mr. Boston. "Sir Thomas Lipton has spent a great part of his life building yachts which he hoped would be able to defeat the best of the American yachts.

"I met Sir Thomas Lipton when he visited New York early last winter to make plans for the international races. His spirits were very good and he was confident that his racing efforts this year would prove successful.

"The public has a kindly feeling toward this famous international sportsman who has taken his defeats without offering any excuses and who has always come back to America determined to gain the victory.

Young Stribling to Take Ring Layoff

"Pa Stribling tells me that his fighting son will not be able to do any training for eight weeks.

"The Georgian injured his left hand in his bout with Otto Von Porat in Chicago. He went through with the Scott match while the hand was still causing him trouble.

"In the event Jack Sharkey meets Primo Carnera in Chicago and wins, he will probably oppose Young Stribling in a Florida ring. Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A. may promote this contest.

"The New York Garden, as well as the Milk Fund, are already in the field for a Sharkey-Stribling tussle.

"Of course, if Sharkey meets Carnera and loses, it will present another picture. A Stribling-Carnera match will then be the fistic plum which the promoters will try to pick.

Johnston Says Schmeling Won't Return to U. S.

"Jimmy Johnston of New York, American representative for Phil Scott, says Max Schmeling will not return to this country to defend his world's heavyweight championship next year. Johnston has just come back from Europe where he talked with English newspapermen who had interviewed Herr Max. Jimmy says Schmeling is not satisfied with the treatment he received in American rings.

Jersey City to Have Municipal Stadium

"Jersey City is going to have a Municipal Stadium which will be capable of seating 100,000 persons. Mayor Hague expects to have the structure ready for the opening of the outdoor boxing season next year.

"The New York Garden is also considering plans for erecting an outdoor stadium suitable for boxing and bicycle races in New York. The Garden does not believe the ball parks are the proper spots for big ring shows. It is difficult for fans to get a proper view of the action if more than 20 rows from the ring."

Harness Races at Weymouth Today

Weymouth Fair, the outdoor event known to Norfolk County and South Shore enthusiasts since 1865, opens its two-day stay at South Weymouth fair grounds today.

Besides its usual features, including harness racing furnished by Mohawk Circuit horses and those from local driving clubs, the fair presents the first horse show in its long history.

The 29 classes offered in the horse show have attracted a select entry from many Greater Boston stables which will actively open their show season with today's exhibition. Close to 100 actual horses, many of them leading specimens of their types, are listed to parade before the judges during the day.

The harness racing features of the first day will offer a 2:24 trot, a two-year-old stake with 27 entries and a 2:24 pace.

150 OPEN PLAY IN ST. PAUL TOURNEY

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 15 (AP)—The long trek for gold and glory over the Keller County golf course today saw 150 entries wishing for a generous crop of birdies, but willing to take what the fates may give in St. Paul's first open golf tournament.

One round of 18 holes was on today and another similar round will be played Saturday. The low 60 scorers and ties will go into the 36-hole final march Sunday to determine how the $10,000 prize money offered by the St. Paul Junior Association shall be devided.

After four days of practice rounds over the course, which is considered one of the best public layouts in the country, the sharpshooters of the professionals felt that something around 280 for the 72 holes would take the first day money, $2500.

Many of the leaders in the national open played at Interlachen, Minneapolis, in July, will be among today's starters. Missing from the list are Bobby Jones, national open champion; MacDonald Smith, runner-up, and Leo Diegel, P. G. A. champion.

The persistent money winners were favored to win the St. Paul open. Johnny Farrell was the leading favorite, although Gene Sarazen, Harry Cooper and Horton Smith had their adherents.

Al Watrous, also was a late arrival. Wild Bill Mehlhorn had been doing some experimenting with the course, mostly without playing companions.

FOX PICKED TO WIN TRAVERS

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—The turf's "battle of the century" is due at picturesque Saratoga Springs tomorrow when Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone attempts, in the Travers Stakes, to wrest the three-year-old title from William Woodward's Gallant Fox.

Unbeaten in six starts this year, the Fox, with the ever alert Earl Sande up, probably will go to the post the 4 to 5 choice, but there will be plenty of 11 to 10 and 6 to 5 money riding on the Whitney flash and his sensational jockey, Sonny Workman, when the field of four or less parades to the barrier at about 6 p. m. (E. D. T.).

Once before this season, in the Belmont Stakes, the big red colt from the Woodward barns and his arch rival met, and the Fox at the time was far the better, winning the mile and a half jaunt by four lengths. Supporters of the Whitney entry are claiming, however, that the son of Chicle-Flying Witch is a 20 per cent better colt than when he first met the champion.

Incidentally the backers of Whichone have plenty of ground for their belief. The colt has come up to the Travers in a sensational manner that promises one of the greatest races in the history of American Turf on tomorrow. As a trial for his supreme test, Whichone has been sent out three times in the past two weeks and won all three races handily.

Mother of Three "Seconds" Boxer

New York, Aug. 15 (INS)—Women today had invaded a new domain, hitherto, considered strictly masculine. At an amateur boxing bout in Fort Hamilton military reservation last night, before 5000 fans, two women appeared as seconds for boxers.

Mrs. Mary Capocci of Hackensack, mother of three children, didn't scream, but merely appeared dazed when "Wildcat Red" Russo of Hackensack, her boxer, was knocked out by "Swede Tornado" Ole Nesheim, Portland, Ore., who was seconded by Miss Vera Brown, auburn-haired miss of South Chicago.

Mrs. Capocci looked stunned when the "Wildcat" went down under a left hook and was dragged to his corner, but she got busy at once and patted the back of his neck and wielded a wet sponge with considerable gusto.

Cold Cash Nears World Pace Mark

Middletown, N. Y., Aug. 15—Breitenfeld drove Cold Cash, Blue Ridge stable colt, to within a quarter of a second of the world's three-year-old half-mile track race mark to beat the hitherto undefeated Prince Wick in the feature event today 2:14 pace at Harry Clay oval yesterday.

Prince W. took the first heat in 2:07 and Cold Cash annexed the second in 2:06¾, after a close brush. He went the last half of the third heat in one minute flat to record the sensational time of 2:04¾. Better Win has the world mark of 2:04¾.

NEW TENNIS STAR GROWS IN BRILLIANCE

SYDNEY WOOD, 19-year-old New York player whose meteoric rise in the tennis world this season betokens a brilliant future. Bill Tilden predicts that he will be a fine prospect for the 1931 Davis Cup team. Wood has beaten many stars, including George Lott, Frank Shields and Wilmer Allison. He will play here in the national doubles, at Longwood. In the photos below, Wood shows how he handles the racquet to his best advantage. Always calm, no matter what the circumstances, Wood has repeatedly shown that he is of championship calibre. With more experience, Wood should soon rank among the first ten.

WOOD NEWEST TENNIS STAR

In this season of tennis upsets, which have come fast and furiously both in men's and women's ranks, the experts are placing themselves in extremely precarious positions by singling out any individual and slinging superlatives about his ability and his future.

This was done concerning Clifford Sutter, Bryan Grant, Frank X. Shields and Ellsworth Vines in the course of this court campaign. And all these stars have failed to flicker with anything resembling consistency.

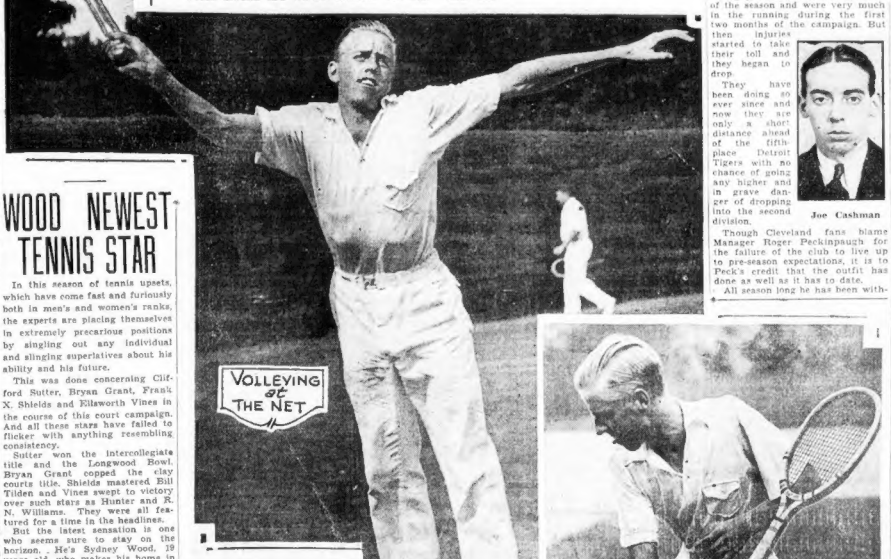
Sutter won the intercollegiate title and the Longwood Bowl. Bryan Grant copped the clay courts title. Shields mastered Bill Tilden and Vines swept to victory over such stars as Hunter and R. N. Williams. They were all featured for a time in the headlines.

But the latest sensation is one who seems sure to stay on the horizon. He's Sydney Wood, 19 years old, who makes his home in New York city. He is the only one who has shown the consistency needed to stamp him as a star. And perhaps the only one of the Junior crop who has that unquenchable spirit to reach the heights. He's a real giant killer in both ability and courage.

Sydney lost to Cliff Sutter in the Longwood final. But he came back at Seabright to defeat Ellsworth Vines, who, at the time, was riding on the crest of a popularity wave.

Last week at Southampton Wood conquered Bryan Grant of Atlanta, George Lott of Chicago, Frank Shields of New York and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex. The victims of Wood's all-round play need no introduction. Lott, Grant and Shields were beaten in Wood's advance to the final and he upset Wilmer Allison in that bracket in five hard sets.

Sydney Wood is due in Boston again for the national doubles. He plays with Henry Binner of New York, a neighbor, and they form a very formidable duo. Tilden has singled this lad out as the big prospect for the 1931 Davis Cup team. And all the experts feel that they're making a sure step in singing his praises. He must be good.



HOOVER ASKED TO B. C. GAME

By BILL CONNELL

There is a strong possibility that President Hoover will head the list of distinguished guests who will attend the Boston College-Quantico Marines football game, scheduled for October 4, as a part of the program of the national convention of the American Legion, it was learned today.

General Petain, famous World War leader of the French army, and Admiral Jellicoe, distinguished British World War sea fighter, are among the notables who are to come to Boston in Legion week and take in the B. C.-Quantico game as part of the trip.

Close to 100,000 Legionnaires are expected in the Hub for the convention, so the game is likely to be a sellout to the Legion thousands.

An attempt now is being made by the Legion authorities to get the famous United States Marine Band to play at the football fray.

Lawrence Picks Grid Officials

Faculty Manager of Athletics John W. Kennedy of Lawrence high school announces that the officials have been agreed upon for the annual football game between Lawrence and Lowell high schools, which will be played at Memorial Stadium, Lawrence, on Thanksgiving Day.

Austen Lake of Lafayette will serve as referee for the third consecutive season, while Oswald Tower, Williams, will be the umpire; John J. Mitchell, B. C., will be the field judge, and William J. Dempsey, also B. C., will serve as head linesman.

Women Golfers to Play for Trophy

Members of the Women's Golf Association of Massachusetts will take part in the first invitation medal play competition for the Townshend cup on Wednesday and Thursday, September 3 and 4, over the course of the Essex County Club, Manchester-by-the-Sea.

The Townshend cup has been presented to the Women's Golf Association by Mrs. Henry H. Townshend of New Haven, in memory of her twin sister, Fanny C. Osgood, who for many years was secretary, and late president of the association.

Horton Advances in Portland Tourney

Portland, Me., Aug. 14 (AP)—Albert Horton of Providence, R. I., won his quarter-final play in the Maine State tennis championship today in an easy defeat of L. W. Knox, 6—2, 6—2.

Perry Rockafellow, the defending champion, advanced to the semi-final standing by defeating Abbot Goldsmith, 6—2, 6—2.

CARNERA TO BOX ON PERCENTAGE

Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, will meet in a 10-round bout in Chicago Sept. 29 with Mique Malloy as the promoter, it was definitely assured today.

Terms at which the fighters signed were not disclosed but it was understood that Carnera will fight for 25 per cent of the gate while Sharkey will receive 30 per cent or $100,000.

Malloy planned to use Soldier's field for the attraction and estimated the receipts above $500,000. Both fighters will train near Chicago for two weeks before the encounter.

Madison Square Garden officials were somewhat surprised, they admitted today, that Malloy had marched into New York and marched right out again with the Sharkey-Carnera match. They said they were handicapped in bidding for the match by the fact Carnera is barred in New York. Also it was understood Malloy held an option on the Italian's services.

Hoogerhyde Winner of Archery Title

Chicago, Aug. 15 (INS)—The United States archery championship for men today rested in the possession of Russell Hoogerhyde, of Coldwater, Mich., by virtue of a victory over E. L. Mapes and Carl Thompson, who placed second and third, respectively.

Fights Last Night

By the Associated Press

New York—Joe Santa, Portugal, knocked out Al Sharkey, Boston (3).

At New York—Kid Kaplan, Porto Rico, fought tonight to a draw with Joe Curry, Trinidad (10). Angel Ulivella, Brooklyn, middleweight, knocked out Teddy Sear, New York (1); Johnny Cocoran, New York, welterweight, defeated Georgie Raidur, Brooklyn (8); Ole Nesheim, Portland, Ore., knocked out "Wildcat Red" Russo, Hackensack (1).

At White Plains, N. Y.—Pete Horton, New York middleweight, scored a technical knockout over Mickey Taylor, New York (8).

At Bridgeport, Ct.—Phil Johnson, Newark, N. J., middleweight, scored a technical kayo over Billy Franklin, New Haven (8).

Steve Donoghue to Ride Next Season

London, Aug. 15 (US)—Reports from Nottingham that a leg broken in two places may end the riding career of little Steve Donoghue, one of the world's greatest jockeys, were denied by friends close to the plucky rider.

Physicians agree that Donoghue will be fit and well and able to ride again next year in the season which opens in March.

King George and the Earl of Derby were among those who sent cheering messages to Steve today.

South Shore Open August 22-23

South Shore Country Club will hold its annual open tournament on August 22 and 23, over the club course, Hingham, under the auspices of the M. G. A. Ten prizes are to be given for best gross, second gross, first and second net, handicaps to include eight; first and second net, handicaps nine to 13 inclusive; first and second net, handicaps 14 to 18 inclusive, and first and second net, handicaps over 18.

N. Y. Pro Teams to Play Night Games

New York, Aug. 15—The New York Giants will play five of their 17 professional football games this season at night. Three night games will be played at the Polo Grounds, one at Newark and one at Portsmouth.

RED SOX HAVE CHANCE TO CLIMB IN FINAL LOCAL SERIES WITH INDIANS

By JOE CASHMAN

Cleveland, the club that injuries wrecked, makes its last local appearance of the season against the Red Sox in a four-game series starting at the Fens tomorrow.

The Indians shaped up like a strong pennant threat at the start of the season and were very much in the running during the first two months of the campaign. But then injuries started to take their toll and they began to drop.

Joe Cashman

They have been doing so ever since and now they are only a short distance ahead of the fifth-place Detroit Tigers with no chance of going any higher and in grave danger of dropping into the second division.

Though Cleveland fans blame Manager Roger Peckinpaugh for the failure of the club to live up to pre-season expectations, it is to Peck's credit that the outfit has done as well as it has to date.

All season long he has been without the services of Lou Fonseca, first baseman and leading hitter in the American League last season, and he has had to get along at some time or other without Joey Sewell, his crack third sacker; Luke Sewell, his best catcher; Willis Hudlin, box ace, and three star outfielders, Earl Averill, Charlie Jamieson and Dick Porter.

Peckinpaugh Did Fine Work With Team

If he wasn't a mighty capable pilot, those blows would have knocked the aggregation into the diphs.

The club has had only one consistent winning pitcher this season, Wes Ferrell, but he has been worth more to the club than almost any other two hurlers.

The big right-hander has turned in 20 victories thus far and has established himself as one of baseball's greatest pitchers in his second year in the big show.

Last year he stepped up from Class B to win 20 odd games, which was remarkable enough, but not nearly as remarkable as his showing this season. For few pitchers that have an exceptional first season are able to repeat the following year.

Cleveland has been very successful against the Sox this season, gaining the edge in every series the clubs have played. On the present Eastern trip, however, the Indians have been going very poorly and since the Sox are playing mighty good ball at present, the natives may be able to do a little gaining at the expense of the visitors in the coming engagement.

The Wagners have a new regular pitcher as a result of the third game with St. Louis. Young Ed. "Bull" Burham, hurling his first complete game of the year, blanked the Browns with four scattered hits and is sure to be used in turn from here in.

The youngster has shown flashes of brilliance all season. He recently held the champion Athletics to seven hits and beat them and he once held the Yanks scoreless for seven frames.

Durham Does Well in First Full Game

Up to yesterday, though, he had always weakened before going the full nine innings.

Manager Wagner apparently expected him to falter against the Browns for he kept Jimmy Dykes Fayden warming up from the sixth inning on, but the kid was never in trouble.

He gave two singles in the first, another in the third and didn't yield the fourth safety until the ninth, when Metzler singled.

Furthermore he always kept ahead of the enemy batters. He didn't walk a man and finished his performance in 83 minutes, the fastest time in which a game has been played at the Fens this season.

Salmon, 70, in Ten-Mile Run

Lowell, Aug. 15—"Billy" Salmon, who was a veteran of Marathon when Clarence DeMar was just beginning to tackle the game, is among the entries in the 10-mile run to be conducted from Silver Lake, Wilmington, to St. Anthony's track grounds in Central st., tomorrow evening.

Salmon is near the 70-year-old mark, and has been Marathoning over hill and dale for the past 50 years. He has many prizes to his credit, and values them highly.

Open Tourney at Ould Newbury Today

An open golf tournament under the auspices of the Massachusetts Golf Association will be held on the Ould Newbury Golf Club course today and tomorrow.

6 Members of British Polo Team Due Today

New York, Aug. 15 (INS)—Six members of the British polo team, headed by Captain Charles H. Treadwayne, who will compete in the international matches at Meadow Brook, L. I., will arrive today on the liner Aquitania. They will hold a practice game Saturday or Sunday, it was planned.

Corbett Changed Boxing Style of Ring Headliners

JIM PROVED SPEED AND SKILL COULD CONQUER STRENGTH AND PUNCH

By JACK CONWAY

James J. Corbett, starting as a bank clerk, has been a powerful figure in booming the boxing game in all parts of the world. He has attracted some of the best people in the community to the sport.

Corbett was born in San Francisco, Cal., on September 1, 1868. He received considerable schooling when a boy and secured a position as a bank clerk.

Jack Conway

As a youngster Corbett was vitally interested in all branches of athletics. He was particularly strong for boxing.

Corbett spent hours studying the fine points of the game. He boxed with other amateurs at the Olympic Club in San Francisco.

Corbett was 20 years of age before he entered the professional ring. In his first year as a boxer, he engaged in only two bouts. He lost a decision to Billy Welsh in four rounds, and later stopped Welsh in a round.

Meanwhile Corbett continued to school himself in the fine points of the fistic game. His first important bout was with Joe Choynski, whom he stopped in 27 rounds at Benecia, Cal.

On February 18, 1890, Corbett gained considerable fame when he defeated Jake Kilrain at New Orleans in six rounds.

HELD JACKSON EVEN

One of the high spots of Corbett's career was his 61-round draw with Peter Jackson at San Francisco on May 21, 1891. Followed his win over John L. Sullivan at New Orleans on September 7, 1892, which has already been described in detail.

The rugged Tom Sharkey held Corbett to a four-round draw at San Francisco on June 24, 1896.

Corbett lost his title to Bob Fitzsimmons in 14 rounds on March 17, 1897. A terrific punch to the solar plexus ended Corbett's career as boss of the heavyweight division.

Jim Jeffries stopped Corbett in 21 rounds at Coney Island New York, on May 11, 1900.

Corbett's marvelous ability as a boxer is what enabled him to get to the front. Jim was never very rugged and could not be called as a puncher. He was blessed with a fine left hand, a nimble pair of feet and intelligence of a high degree.

Corbett never made a great deal of money as a b xer. His biggest purse was the $45,000 he received when he defeated Sullivan.

Corbett, however, has earned a great deal of money since he retired from the ring. He has been popular as a stage performer and as a speaker and writer on health and exercise.

Corbett for years has been known as "Gentleman Jim." His polished, easy manner has availed him to gain considerable standing.

The former champion has stood up well under the years. He is still in splendid physical condition, and in four-round bouts I think he could still step in and give boxing lessons to some of the youngsters of today.

Corbett set a new style for boxers. He proved that skill can overcome brute strength and punching power.

OLD GUARD AIDED GAME

Men like John L. Sullivan, Corbett, Kilrain, Mitchell, Jackson Fitzsimmons and other members of the Old Guard did much for boxing. They were the pioneers in the days before the big purses and when sheriffs chased boxing matches from state to state.

I only wish men with the same amount of ability as members of the Old Guard would come flocking along the fistic horizon today. Such a happening would prove a tremendous tonic to the boxing game, which has received some tough knocks in recent years.

40-MILE RACE AT REVERE OVAL

The six bike riders, who thrilled the fans at the Revere Beach track last Saturday night in the Bol d'Or 50-mile battle, will be competing again tomorrow night at Nat Butler's oval in a 40-mile championship event.

Franz Duelberg was the victor in the Bol d'Or scramble, but it was one of the hottest races of the season, with Frank Keenan, George Chapman, Al Letourneur, Franco Georgetti and Charley Jaeger furnishing the opposition.

Al Letourneur lost ground in his race for the title by not getting a place, while Georgetti finished well up enough to gather some more marks en his total.

Frank K enan, the Revere cyclist, was leading last Saturday night until Duelberg caught him unawares and passed him to pedal on to victory. Keenan hopes to even this score.

Manager Nat Butler feels that he has another fine race to offer the fans, for all the riders are in the pink of condition and all are anxious to win.

Al Cressley and John Bruskie and other pro and amateur races will ride in the preliminary events.

Caesarion Wins Race After Trying 4 Years

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—After four years of attempting to win a race, Caesarion, five-year-old son of Man O' War—Cleopatra, has finally graduated from the maiden ranks.

In race after race and on track after track Caesarion had disappointed, but yesterday he came through in the Champlain Stakes at Saratoga and paid the long price of 25 to 1. Caesarion is owned by W. R. Coe, Wall Street broker.

B. S. A. MEET AT NORUMBEGA

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

A brilliant track and field festival, that will be studded with all the girl stars in New England, will be held at Norumbega Park next Sunday afternoon. The meet is being staged by the Boston Swimming Association but girls from other athletic organizations have been invited to compete.

There are nine events on the regular program with three extras, in the form of feature events, that should add more than the usual lot of one of these fair sex fiestas.

The trio of "asides" include a rolling-pin hurling contest, a backward race and a slow motion race. The contestants in all events will be serious, with fine prizes to be annexed, but the more serious they are the more amusement for the large number of fans who are expected to gather.

The slow motion race is an interesting novelty that comes at an appropriate time with many other trick stunts such as flag-pole sitting, endurance boxing bouts and long-distance bicycle riding in fashion.

Quest and Thisbe in Final Race

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—A triangular course of 21 miles faced the contenders in the series for the coveted Canada's Cup, which will go to the eight-meter yacht winning today's race.

The series was evened yesterday when the challenging Royal Canadian Yacht Club's Quest clipped across the finish line 28 seconds ahead of William P. Barrows' Thisbe. Both yachts have won two races.

If the Quest succeeds in lifting the trophy it will be Canada's first successful attempt in four tries. The Rochester club won the cup in 1903 and successfully defended it in 1905 and 1907.

Adolfo Luque Is Robbie's Choice

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins, long ago decided that Southpaws would not do against the Cubs, and having verified this opinion yesterday by a 5 to 1 defeat, had Senor Adolfo Luque as his selection for the final game of the "crucial" series today.

Manager Joe McCarthy had Charlie Root, his veteran right-hander, and young Malcolm Foss, the Southpaw who has won five straight, as his hurling possibilities today.

Eugene Huat and Al Brown Matched

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—Jeff Dixon, Paris and London boxing promoter, announced today the signing of Al Brown, generally recognized as the bantamweight champion, to box Eugene Huat, French and European champion, in a 15-round bout at the Velodrome in Paris, Oct. 4.

B. U. GRIDMEN WILL REPORT ON SEPT. 4

Hilary Mahaney, head football coach at Boston University, and his assistant, Allen K. Marsters, former Dartmouth football star, will hold the first grid practice session on Thursday, September 4.

The Boston University squad of 21 selected players will meet at Nickerson Recreation Field in Weston.

With Marsters and Mahaney taking charge of the Pioneer athletes, the intown institution departs from the methods inaugurated by Reggie Brown and Ed Robinson, the former Brown University pair who have been in charge of B. U. football since 1925.

The ex-Holy Cross end will work on a stronger defense than the one that the Boston University teams of the past few years have offered. In this respect he will be assisted very much by "Special Delivery" Marsters whose work at Dartmouth as a star ball carrier is already well known.

In the group of 21 who have been ordered to report on September 4, there are 11 men who were in the invited squad last year. The other 10 either reported late in 1929 or else at some time showed promise.

The freshmen eleven which had a fine record last season under Coach Roger "Moose" Washburn will send at least four men who are expected to make the varsity grade. Director of Athletics George V. Brown made it clear that any man in the university who believes he can make the squad can report on September 4 and if he shows promise, will be retained as one of the group living at the Nickerson Field clubhouse.

Canadian Challenger Wins by 8 Seconds

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 15 — The American yacht Thisbe was beaten by 8 seconds in the fourth race of a series with the Canadian yacht Quest for the Canada Cup.

The Royal Canadian Yacht Club boat had at least three lengths of open water to the good as they swept down to the finish.

M'NALLY TO BUY N.Y. GIANTS

New York, Aug. 15 (INS)—Joseph Henry McNally, millionaire New York bricklayer contractor, has already acquired 20 per cent of the stock of the New York Giants of the National Baseball League, he announced today, and on Monday he expected to purchase a controlling interest. He said he would buy out President Charles A. Stoneham "by or before Monday."

McNally secretly purchased the 20 per cent interest in the Giants from William F. Kenny, wealthy contractor and close friend of former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

McNally said that he and several associates now owned 30 per cent of the club stock. Stoneham was said to own 60 per cent of the stock. McNally intimated that he would be elected president of the Giants at a meeting Monday, providing he succeeds in buying out Stoneham.

No figures were given out by the contractor, but it was reported he paid more than $500,000 for Kenny's stock.

McNally said if he acquired control of the Giants that John McGraw would continue as manager of the club.

Walpole Girl Wins Honors in Maine

North Sebago, Me., Aug. 15—Miss Sally Valentine, daughter of James A. Valentine, of 151 Summitt st., Walpole, Mass., was elected the head into the Totem Club of the Highland Nature Camps here. Membership in the club is limited to those girls who are acknowledged leaders in the life of the camp.

Miss Valentine is a canoeist, expert swimmer and diver, and a member of the camp basketball and baseball teams. In a recent track meet, she won the 60-yard dash and the basketball throw.

Walker to Coach at Ashland High

Andover, Aug. 15—Harold Walker of Ballardvale has been appointed coach of all athletics at Ashland high school. He is a graduate of Punchard high school, class of 1918, where he starred in athletics. He attended Phillips Andover Academy and was a member of the baseball team there in 1919.

After leaving school he played professional baseball with the Newark team of the International League under P. J. (Patsy) Donovan and later with the Spartanburg team of the Southern League.

OVER THE PLATE

By JOE CASHMAN

Harold "Pie" Traynor of Somerville is being boomed as the next manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Jewel Ens, present pilot of the club, is being blamed by the fans for the failure of the Bucs to be in the pennant race for the first time in five years, and they are demanding that he be removed, and Traynor, one of the most popular players to ever wear a Smoky City uniform, be named as his successor.

President Barney Dreyfus of the Pirates has always adopted a public-be-damned policy in running the club, but attendance has been so poor in Pittsburgh this year that he is said to be on the verge of surrendering to the customers for the first time ever by appointing his great third baseman boss of the outfit.

He can't, however, make Traynor take the job and it is extremely doubtful whether the Somerville boy will accept the promotion if it is offered to him.

Traynor Has Twice Refused the Job

"Pie" has twice turned the job down, once when Donie Bush was fired and again when Ens was appointed for this season. He said that he felt unequal to the task of managing and playing at the same time and didn't care to quit being an active player just then to become a bench pilot.

With one bad eye and a strained back, Traynor is not the great player he formerly was, but he is still far and away the best of the game's third sackers and unless he feels that his playing days are almost at an end, which is unlikely, the chances of him agreeing to take over the managerial reins are very slim.

If Ens is fired, it is probable that Max Carey, present coach and long a star outfielder of the club, will get the job.

Tommy Whelan Would Make Good Pilot

Talking about managers reminds us that any big league magnate looking for a new pilot could do a lot worse than give Tommy Whelan of Lynn a chance.

No other manager in any circuit in the country has been as successful as the Lynn boy since he quit playing in the American Association and made his debut as a pilot with the Nashua team in the old Greater Boston Twilight League five years back.

He is still as successful as ever, his club having won eight straight games since it was organized.

A manager doesn't need previous big league experience to become a success in fast company. The record of Joe McCarthy proves that.

The Cubs boss never had a connection with a big league club in any capacity before he was named boss of the National League champions, yet he has never been out of the first division since taking over last place club in the Windy City in 1925.

He hadn't done any more to recommend him before he came up than Whelan has accomplished in the last five years.

Vets Play Juniors in New Bedford Semi-Finals

NETTELBLADT BEATEN BY WOODSUM

SEMIFINALS

Howard Paul, Bear Hill, vs. S. J. Besse, Jr., New Bedford

A. F. Kammer, Sr., Baltrusrol, vs. R. Y. Woodsum, South Shore.

By BILL GRIMES

New Bedford, Aug. 15 Two veterans, D. Howard Paul, Bear Hill, and A. F. Kammer, Baltrusrol, N. H., are playing two recent graduates of the junior class, Seth Besse, Jr., and Dick Woodsum, today, in the semi-finals of the fourth annual Country Club of New Bedford invitation tournament.

Although the outcome of the first round ran true to prediction with two exceptions, the second round finished four upsets. In the opening round, the defeat of Dave Whiteside, New Bedford, by Merville F. Heath Jr., Bree Burn, and A. F. Kammerer's victory over John Merwin, Concord, were wholly unexpected.

Bill Grimes

Because the effects of the first round upsets had not registered, the two finalists of last year's tournament, Chick Grasse and Carl Nettelbladt had passed out of the championship. Arthur Brad Oxnard, a former Rhode Island titleholder, and Mel Heath.

Mel Heath administered a shock to the localists when he put out Dave Whiteside in the first round. Heath shot the best brand of golf he has shown in two years, winning his match on the 18th hole.

A. F. Kammer, who is playing from Baltrusrol, took a 1 up decision from John Merwin, and Mel Heath stepped into the second round by winning on the home hole.

Grasse Loses to Paul in 20-Hole Match

Grasse had an easy time with Arthur Houghton, Corning, N. Y. C. C. winning 8 and 6 in the first round but he met his master in the afternoon in Howard Paul, Bear Hill, but not until they had played 20 holes.

Paul started his attack with a 2 and 1 decision over Leon K. Emerson, Wollaston, and now is favored to succeed Carl Nettelbladt as the New Bedford champion.

Seth Besse, Jr., defeated his former Dartmouth teammate Dick Rockwell 1 up in the first round and then raced around and took Brad Oxnard over the jumps to the tune of 5 to 4 in the afternoon.

Although Paul had never seen the New Bedford course until he played the qualifying round on Wednesday, he has been shooting the layout as though it was his home club. Paul qualified with a 78, which included a lost ball on the eighth hole.

He was still at the top of his game against Emerson in the opening round and battled Grasse, one of the biggest favorites, through 20 holes to reach the semifinals.

TUNING UP FOR TITLE

GERRY MOORE, one of the foremost junior golfers in Greater Boston, who has signed up for the Hearst Junior Golf Championship at Wollaston, starting August 25, and who is looked upon as one of the likely winners. Gerry plays at Woodland where he teams in four-ball play with Bill Donnelly, ex-Junior champion.

Hearst Tourney Entries Show Popularity of Golf

Baseball, the national pastime, has been chilled of late years by an ever-increasing bugaboo. Though the magnates scoff at the idea and sometimes make light of it, they can't seem to shake it off.

Golf is gradually overtaking baseball as the favorite sport with the youth of the nation.

No surer proof can be proffered than the entry list of close to 250 for the second William Randolph Hearst Junior Golf Tournament which will be played during the week starting August 25, at the Wollaston Golf Club, Montclair.

There is no actual means of compiling statistics for comparing the increase of golf interest and the apparent decrease of baseball enthusiasm.

But one can make a pretty good estimate of the rapid rise of golf's ing popularity by noting the increase of entrants in the 1930 Hearst Junior Golf Tournament With a week and a half to go, and only one week since the announcement was made, 250 boys have sent in their names.

The total is expected to be close to 500 when the boys start to swing in the qualifying round at Wollaston on August 25

Ty Cobb, a short while back, made the statement that baseball was slipping. Immediately Ty was rebuked, but Ty surely didn't make that statement unthinkingly. He might have known what he was talking about.

At least the Hearst Junior entry list, of which more names are herewith published, would seem to indicate that Tyrus, the Georgia Peach, might have been very near to right.

Following are more entries in the Hearst Junior Tourney:

Peter Larouche, Norwood.
Francis Clifford, Boston.

Buck Freeman Is Idol of Dorchester Twi Fans

John "Buck" Freeman, a local boy on the Dorchester Twilight Club, has made himself one of the idols of the Town Field congregation by his brilliant all-around playing this season.

Buck has been one of the shining lights in Dorchester's comeback to the top in the second-half pennant fight. He plays center field and bats in either third or clean-up position.

A familiar figure at the Town Field is that of Freeman slicing into the crowd in deep center or smashing one long fly and to rob the hitter of a two base knock.

Freeman is one of the fastest fielders in the circuit and a sure catcher if he comes within reach of the ball. At Dorchester Field the crowd gathers just back of the gardeners and a blow into the audience is good for two bases according to the ground rules. A fielder has to have plenty of courage to run headlong into a mob after a fly but Buck has done it time and again, often going back to the fence to make his catches.

At the bat he's always a threat. The Twi averages will soon be released and it seems certain that Bucky will be within the first few if not at the top. Unofficial averages have him batting for more than .500.

Buck went to Columbia, where he led the college batters and then transferred to Holy Cross, where he covered the outfield for three of Jack Barry's championship Purple nines.

Freeman makes a living selling automobiles, but continues to play ball because he can't get it out of his blood. He's a successful business man as well as a ball player.

HUB HORSES WIN AT NEWPORT

Newport, R. I., Aug 15—Deer Hill farm entries of Hugh Bancroft and Mrs. William C. Cox of Boston and Cohasset amounted for 15 ribbons in the first days contest on the 31st annual Newport horse show yesterday.

Mrs. Cox, one of the most enthusiastic harness horsewomen in New England, scored two firsts, two seconds and a third in the opening day's events for harness horses. Her skill with the reins was noteworthy as she added to the first triumphs of the newly named Deer Hill farm stable.

In hunter classes, Hugh Bancroft's Cinderella was second in lightweight competition with a stablemate, Rokoma, third. Cinderella also picked up a fourth in a third. Another of Miss Bancroft's horses, Al Jolson, was second in ladies' saddle horse rivalry, Rokoma gathered second, and Show Me, another Bancroft horse, and third in a novice class.

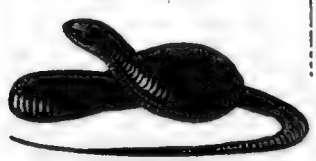
A LIZARD THAT MASQUERADES AS A SNAKE.



THE GLASS SNAKE

WHOSE TAIL MAY BE BROKEN OFF AND A NEW ONE WILL GROW ON IN ITS PLACE.

SO FAR AS OUTWARD APPEARANCES GO THIS LIMBLESS LIZARD IS A PERFECTLY GOOD SNAKE — AND IF THE SLEUTHS OF SCIENCE HAD NOT DISCOVERED THAT IT HAD MOVABLE EYELIDS LIKE THE LIZARD AND THAT IT DIFFERED FROM THE SNAKE IN OTHER INCONSPICUOUS WAYS, THIS DECEPTION MIGHT HAVE GONE UNNOTICED FOR A MUCH LONGER TIME.

Youthful Skippers at Marblehead

Miss Mary Loring — Miss Frances Lannon — Miss Louisa Vaughan

MISS MARY LORING, daughter of Mr. and Mr. Augustus P. Loring of Marlborough st., Miss Frances Lannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John David Lannon of Mattapoisett, and Miss Louisa Vaughan, daughter of Mr. Samuel Vaughan of Beverly Farms, were three of the youthful skippers who took part in the races at Marblehead this week.

Society Out in Force for Marblehead Regatta

PERFECT SAILING weather contributed to the enjoyment of those on sea and land yesterday at the Marblehead regatta. Slightly overcast skies, a spanking breeze, numerous contestants for each race to make it thrilling, each little ship with its merry cargo of boys and girls in gayly colored shirts and ducks, flags and pennants flying—there is no prettier sight than the start of a yacht race.

THE PROGRAM STARTED at 1.45 and from then on during the afternoon the silver seas would meet on the starting line in the various classes like hens ready for flight and, as silently, they were off. The youthful skippers were fascinating in their T shirts and duck trousers. Miss Catherine Johnson was swagger in all white sailor's suit with white beret, a gaily colored sweater tied over her shoulders; Isabelle Ogilby and Nancy Tucker of Eastern Point, Gloucester, wore overalls of white piped with red and red and white fishermen's hats.

ROSAMOND LOCKWOOD handled the sails skillfully in navy blue trousers and coat with white skirt and gay handkerchief to complete a fair pirates attire. The Loring girls, Mary and Rose, looked like the fisherman's daughters in their serviceable dungarees and heavy sweaters and Alice Burrage looked just as fair in khaki pants and jersey as in silks and chiffons. Anne Perry of Nahant wore a short blue skirt with her jersey but was quite as efficient as her brothers, Hal and Peter; Louisa Vaughan was another skipper in shirts, as were Barbara Holdsworth, Henrietta Duffield, Barbara Bremer, Gretchen Bremer and Mabel Bell, South Shore visitors, and buds of the coming season.

MISS EDITH H. EUSTIS, daughter of Mr. Frederick Eustis of Catauniet, was one of those who took the launch to board a yacht out in the harbor, as were Mrs Edward H. Rudd and Mrs E. A. Boardman. There was much entertaining on board private yachts and a special luncheon was served at the Eastern Yacht Club. The races continue through Saturday of this week.

Larz Anderson Off Tonight on Business Trip to Holland

LARZ ANDERSON OF BOSTON is sailing for Europe on the Holland-American Line flagship Statendam tonight at midnight for a business trip to Holland. He will return on September 5.

MRS. MAUDE HOWE ELIOT of Newport, daughter of the late Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, will sail tonight from New York on the Saturnia. The noted author and society woman will act as honorary leader of the 500 legionnaires and Greek war veterans who are going to Greece to take part in the festivities celebrating the Centenary of Greek Independence. The group will be received this afternoon by Mayor Walker and county and state officials of the American Legion. The Greek fleet will meet the Saturnia 100 miles off Athens and escort the ship to port, where the festivities will take place.

MR. AND MRS. B. DEVEREAUX FAIRCHILD were among those going a dinner party before the Eastern Yacht Club dance at Marblehead Neck last evening.

MRS. BENJAMIN TICKNOR, mother of the two Ticknor boys of Harvard athletic fame, is registered at the Roosevelt, New York.

Bay State Daughters Plan Membership Campaign

By NANCY BREWSTER

The Daughters of Massachusetts are to return to club activities October 9, Mrs. Joseph C. Otis announces. At that time officials of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs will be present and a program presented, for the membership at the Hotel Bellevue.

Last November the organization of the junior club for the state held a conference at the Hotel Statler under the chairmanship of Mrs. William J. McDonald, district director, and chairman of the directors of the Federation. It resulted in 1,500 the Daughters of Massachusetts became affiliated as a federation last year. Two or three hundred women are members, with Mrs. Alan F. Fuller, an honorary member.

Mrs. Otis also announced that the organization, a Mayor Curley's as an entertaining group were also in hand in arranging de- tion for foreign lands during the "Tercentenary year of Massachusetts." When carried upon the club of executive the club will give a tea at the Italo Institute Museum.

Brookline Woman to Direct Work of Old Glory Organization

Mrs. Effie M. Kelen of Brookline will direct the activities of the Old Glory Club, formed by Mrs Marion Dyer, veteran coworker in the state. Dedicated to the proper hanging of the flag, the aims of the club are naturally patriotic.

The brainchild of Mrs. Foster who has founded and belonged to the club. Ten any other women in Massachusetts Old Glory Club has been formed recently, but last one gives the highest the state.

Mrs. Kelen, son of the Eastern Star, steps over the presidency of Old Glory Club with an organized model to follow.

Cantabrigia Club to Start Fall Season at Oct. 17 Meeting

The Cantabrigia Club of Cambridge, first club of her women which last spring formally opened a most pretentious clubhouse, starts the club season October 17 with the presentation of a formal program and entertainment.

Mrs. William W. Babcock, president who just returned from a summer of travel abroad, is catching all the loose ends prior to the opening of the club. The meeting will start at 2:30 p. m.

From the list of presidents of affiliated clubs of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, compiled by Mrs. Charles Fuller, clerk, I find 24 are new to the clubs of the sixth district, of which Mrs. William J. McDonald is the director.

Women who have taken the leadership of Greater Boston clubs, and with whom the clubwomen of other parts of the State ought to be familiar, are Mrs. Charles R. La Rose, West Medford, Art Lovers' Club; Mrs. Carl S. Ouguo, Reston, Bright Ideas Club; Mrs. Willard D. Woodbury Allston, Boston City Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Therese Cohen Whitman Brookline, Boston Section, National Council of Jewish Women; Mrs. John J. Burns, Everett, Boston Daughters of Maine; Mrs. Birney A. Robinson, Newtonville, Daughters of Vermont; Mrs. Henry Coolidge Mulligan, Natick, The Ex-Club.

Miss Frank H. Cole, Ex-Club of New Hampshire Daughters; Mrs. Emery F. Chaffee, Belmont, Harvard Woman's Club of Boston; Mrs. A. M. Gilbert Cambridge, League of Women for Community Service; Mrs. Walter Johnson, Marblehead Little Garden Club of Greater Boston; Mrs. Samuel N. B. Blackwood Boston, Massachusetts Maine Daughters; Mrs. Myron Davis, Malden, New Hampshire Daughters; Miss Edna H. Kellon Brookline Old Glory Club; Mrs. S. Ernest Griffin, Winthrop, Presidents' Club; Mrs. Mildred W. Bower, Weymouth, Sons of Star Legion, Massachusetts Division.

Mrs. Edith G. Whiting, Chelsea Newanso Women's Club; Mrs. C. J. Cook, Jamaica Plain, Woman's Auxiliary, Morgan Memorial; Miss Jennie Emmons, Brookline, Women's Charity Club; Mrs. Henry H. Cudworth, Marshfield, Women's Civics Club; Mrs. Frederick Lamb, Boston, Women Musicians' Association; Mrs. J. Perley Staples, Allston, Women's Organization, Boston Association Retail Druggists; Mrs. Annie B. Howard, Greenfield Woman's Relief Corps.

Canton Crepe Has Lead for Autumn

By ANN ARDEN

CANTON CREPE should be listed among famous fashion comebacks. It is having a season, and what a successful season, right now. Dresses for duties and dates all endorse it. With its soft draping quality it lends itself so well to the ruling silhouette, and to certain little tricks of the dressmaking trade that are new.

THOSE VITAL differences that we all look for to distinguish new clothes from those of the season just past, are not evident this fall. In fact there are no drastic changes in silhouette except that a trend toward dignified formality is noticed in the commandment of bows and meanogress frills.

SO IT is that unusual interest surrounds the introduction of the tunic as one of the few really new themes for fall. Patou, who introduced several tunic frocks at his mid-season opening, is the patron of this new idea, and smart women are grateful to him, as the tunic is both smart and generally becoming.

ON DRESSES one sees the tunic either pleated or flared, and in cases where the latter treatment is used a wide border of box pleats on the underskirt is very popular.

TUNIC LENGTH blouses to complement the tunic length of the jacket on smart ensembles are also significant, and often give the suit a coat-dress appearance.

Model from Filene's.

THE STREET frock of canton crepe pictured is in ruby red, with a group of pleats at side front of underskirt. The long, graceful tunic is buttoned down center front with black bone buttons, and is given flare by inverted pleats at lower edge each side, front and back. The V neck ends in three-buttoned tabs. The sleeves have the smart upper arm decoration of three uppointing buttoned tabs above the elbow. The belt and buckle are of the material. The accessories are black—the draped felt toque forms inverted pleats, topped by gray bow, black pull-on gloves and sack pumps are worn; the sack and bag a high lighted by a geranium bulldog in silver prints, black spotted, his red collar and nose tip matching the color of the frock.

If Baby has COLIC

A cry in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Wherever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than some needlessly strong medicine meant only for adult use. Genuine Castoria always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Prescribed by doctors!

PARIS TRIP FOR TYPICAL NEW ENGLAND GIRL

Judge Leveroni Decorated by Italy

Judy Reads of the Stolen Emeralds

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Judith Archer is a country school teacher, 22, and good looking. She wants to be a college professor, while her mother would like her to go in the movies. But Judy lived a double life. She becomes interested in the story of a jewel robbery in London. She goes to New York and calls on Capt. Charley Marceau. He suggests Judy and her mother take a trip with him. She takes passage on Capt. Charley's ship for her mother and herself and draws all her money from the bank. Judy finds herself looking for the radio operator with the sea-green eyes—but he does not remember her at first. Then they spend hours together. Judy stumbles on a mystery at Halifax, and gets acquainted on the ship, with one of the actors.

CHAPTER 21

Judy flushed beneath the intensity of his regard, put up her hands. But the tall boy only held more firmly, laughing all the while—pulled her to her feet—pointed into the turbulent gray.

"Look, that's what I wanted you to see—"

A lilte to port an octagon rock lifted sheer out of the waves. It looked to be about a half mile across—large enough for a house and barns and a stretch of grass, like deep-piled emerald velvet on its mesa top. A short distance from this was another, smaller rock, drab as the clouds and utterly barren.

"They seem to be moving!

"They're in the same place and yet they seem to move—"

"Another charming illusion, like female independence. Now look—"

They were nearer and suddenly the ship sounded a long, deep note, which was answered from the island. As if this were a signal for flight, hundreds of gulls arose and floated in a cloud over both islands, flapping strong white wings. It was their shifting about on the rocks which had made the islands seem to be in motion.

Marvelous!
Judy Is Entranced

"Kit! Oh, marvelous—would not have missed this!"

He stood braced against the wind, grinning down at her with the air of accepting applause.

"But you needn't be so proud of yourself. It doesn't belong to you, Mr. Christopher Camp—the sea or the isles thereof. I'd have seen all this with you a million miles away."

"Ah—but think what you'd have missed! I can see," he went on, bending down, squeezing her arm in a rollicky glee, "that we're while away a good many innocent hours in this delightful spot—you and I."

"Oh—take that for granted—"

She flung away angrily, but he would not let her go. "I'll say I'm sorry—ah—that helps? Why so touchy? You never mentioned a radio operator. I could do with six or seven complimen."

When she hesitated he dropped back to the deck, patting the bare spots on him with such a hopeful grin that she laughed in spite of herself and sat down to spread a copy of the little paper, shielding it from the wind, and leafed it over, eagerly asking her opinion on this and that.

Judy Scared
Sees Scar-Faced Man

The first pages offered short paragraphs gleaned from radio dispatches concerning the world's news; following these were sports items, market reports, the weather, and last of all news having to do with the ship and passengers.

"Well, Miss School-ma'm—well, well—"

"I'll give the compliment, Kit—all seven of them. It's like a real newspaper in miniature . . . You might be a real editor some day; sit at a desk and print adventures instead of living them."

"You'd like that, Judy? Had a reporter's job once. In Sydney, it was—"

She had been running through the radio news; now she gave an exclamation and began to read aloud.

"Search for the stolen Ballard emeralds has reached American shores, according to friends of Mr. Cecil Covington, who admits that Scotland Yard has failed to recover the trio of famous gems, 'Sisters Three.'

"These gems, each worth a fortune, were carried off by two men who boldly entered the Covington home and held up a dinner party, afterward departing in a leisurely manner. One of the robbers was identified as American—"

No Cut in Hub's 1931 Auto Insurance

A continuance of the present high compulsory automobile insurance rates for Chelsea, Revere and Boston, which a year ago caused a storm of protest and resulted in more than a score of bills being filed in the Legislature for relief, appears practically certain for 1931

Under the law, Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown is required to promulgate the new rates by September 15. He will first establish tentative rates and prior to putting them into effect must give ten days' notice of a public hearing.

The commissioner said today that he expects to make public the tentative 1931 rates about August 29 and to hold the hearing on Monday, September 8.

The 1930 rates were based on the experience of the years 1927 and 1928. This year the rates will be based on 1927, 1928 and 1929.

It was indicated that the loss ratio for these years will not permit of any material change in the first three territories which comprise Chelsea, Revere and Boston.

A year ago, these three cities, together with Everett, Somerville, Cambridge and Winthrop, were all in territory 1, with passenger car rates of $47 for "W" cars, $47 for "X" cars, and $62 for the "Z" cars.

When the rates for 1930 were made up, Chelsea was put in territory 1 by itself, and the rates boosted to $64, $47 and $80. The increases amounted to $17, $20 and $18.

Revere was put in territory 2, also alone, and the rates increased to $57, $60 and $72, representing jumps of $10, $13 and $10.

Boston was established as territory 3, with rates of $48, $53 and $59, representing an increase of $1 for the light cars, a $5 jump for the medium cars and a $3 decrease for the heavy machines.

Psuedo Doctor Sent to Hospital

Charles Nason of Beacon st, charged by Police Sergt. John P. Moore with having posed as a physician and undertaken to cure him of alcoholism and with giving him a box of powders ostensibly for intestinal trouble charging a $5 fee, was sent by the Roxbury District Court yesterday to the Psychopathic Hospital for 10 days' examination, after he had been declared guilty.

Nason testified that the sergeant's allegations were not correct. He denied posing as a doctor but claimed he had been "a natural chemist" for 20 years and that he only treated cases involving diet

State Turnpike Taken Up at Meeting

More than 40 residents of Framingham held a conference at the State House yesterday with the commissioner of public works to discuss the location of the portion of the proposed Boston-Worcester turnpike which is to run through that town.

Three specific routes as applied to Framingham were taken up. The conference closed with an agreement that the State and town engineers of Framingham would meet Monday to go over all phases of the problem and that a town meeting would be held.

The heads of the Tongs, it was said, met in the Chinatown section and agreed upon armed warfare, to continue until Sept. 1. Meanwhile, the police department was at the height of readiness if their aid should be necessary to break

BLAME TYPHOID ON FARM WATER

Dr. George H. Bigelow, State commissioner of public health, said today that investigation of the outbreak of typhoid fever following a picnic at a Saxonville farm has revealed the water supply on the farm to be unsafe.

He stated that further investigation is being made in connection with the report of employes of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway, where 12 out of 40 cases of typhoid fever have been reported.

The Framingham board of health has been entirely wise in taking action to protect the public from the water supply," the commissioner said.

"However, we have not yet established that this water was the cause of the particular outbreak. The reason for this is that a supply to be unsafe it is enough to show that human contamination of the supply is possible. For a supply to be the cause of an outbreak, we must establish that contamination by a person carrying typhoid organisms took place. Further investigations are being pressed."

BOSTON MEN SUMMONED TO NEW YORK IN STOCK PROMOTION CASE

SIX CALLED IN JARVIS HEARING

Fraud Is Charged in Pool Operations Said to Total More Than $6,000,000

The case of William L. Jarvis head of W. L. Jarvis & Co. stock brokers, 80 Federal st., who with two New York associates has been temporarily restrained from further dealings in stocks and securities in New York State will be heard in Supreme Court, New York city, on August 25.

The case of William L. Jarvis head of W. L. Jarvis & Co. stock brokers, 80 Federal st., who with two New York associates has been temporarily restrained from further dealings in stocks and securities in New York State will be heard in Supreme Court, New York city, on August 25.

An agent of the securities bureau of the New York attorney general's office has been in Boston for two days serving summonses on a score or more Boston witnesses formerly connected with Jarvis.

The New York agent understood also to have served summonses on Alexander L. Fox and associates in the publishing of two Boston stock tipster sheets "Values" and "Profits." The Fox case is to be heard in Supreme Court in Brooklyn on Tuesday.

FRAUD CHARGED

The hearing in the Jarvis case involves stock promoting by William L. Jarvis, Abner S. Werbin and Leonard J. Rollnick, the latter two located in New York city. They are alleged to have sold Advance-Rumely Co. stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange through use of the Financial Debater-Criterion, a tipster sheet, and "various alleged fraudulent tricks and devices."

The transactions are estimated to have amounted to more than $6,000,000.

In the affidavit of the attorney general it is charged that Jarvis, Werbin and Rollnick agreed to form a pool. Werbin bought and sold as much of their holdings as he could. The stock declined to $25 per share for preferred and $7 for common in November, 1929, it is said.

The Boston Better Business Bureau has repeatedly reported the activities of W. L. Jarvis and associates in pushing the stock of Advance-Rumely Co.

PURCHASE ADVISED

Rollnick and Jarvis controlled the Financial Debater-Criterion, Inc., of 185 Devonshire st., publisher of a tipster sheet which purported to give impartial advice for a $5 yearly subscription, the affidavit also alleges.

The affidavit further charges that in March, 1929, after the pool accumulated its stock, Jarvis, Rollnick and Werbin, caused a series of articles to be published on the front page of the Financial Debater-Criterion, recommending the purchase of the stock and making the most extravagant assertions regarding the present and prospective earnings of the Advanced Rumely Co.

MAD BIG STAFF

Jarvis, Rollnick and Werbin also secretly paid large sums of money to various outside men and brokers to get them to boost the stock, who urged the purchase of Advance Rumely stock, it is charged.

The preferred stock rose to 119 and the common 104 on May 1, 1929.

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation. Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "wonder pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

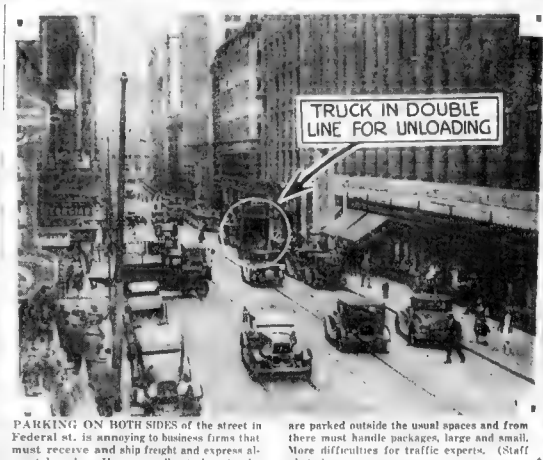
Here Are More Parking Kinks for Traffic Experts to Iron Out



PARKING ON BOTH SIDES of the street in Federal st. is annoying to business firms that must receive and ship freight and express almost hourly. Here you will note how trucks are parked outside the usual spaces and from there must handle packages, large and small. More difficulties for traffic experts. (Staff photo.)

MERCHANTS ALONG PROVINCE STREET are complaining that the new regulations of traffic commissioner fails to afford them any relief from long-time parkers. This picture shows both sides of the street, leaving no room for trucks to stop to load or unload goods. (Staff photo.)

Are You a Victim?

WORD WINNERS TOMORROW

Ninety-nine winners of the $2500 cash awards for correct and neatest solutions of the first Ripley Word Hunt will get a real thrill tomorrow when they read the decisions of the judges.

Mrs. George E. Gomley, second district director of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs and Pierce Buckley, assistant librarian of the Boston Public Library, and F. W. Hewes, who has had charge of the contest in its executive capacity, acted as judges.

Many thousands of answers were received and the work of checking for correctness required weeks of accurate comparison. Even with this preliminary checking the judges were required to spend much time and effort to determine the best of the surviving entries.

Everyone who entered the Word Hunt will want to get Saturday's Boston American and learn who are the first prize of $1000, the second of $500 and the other 97 awards.

POTTERY PLANT DESTROYED

The A. H. Hews & Co. pottery and glassware manufacturing plant on Richdale ave., North Cambridge, was destroyed last night in a fire which threatened the entire neighborhood and caused a property loss in excess of $350,000.

Four families were driven from their homes, a volunteer fireman was injured and six automobiles stationed from Boston, Arlington, Belmont and Somerville before the five-alarm blaze was brought under control.

William F. McGrath, Jr., 17, of 85 Putnam ave., Cambridge, whose father lost his life in a fire about six months ago, fell into an elevator shaft of the building while running hose to the firemen. He punctured his right foot and was taken to Cambridge City Hospital.

Considerable difficulty was experienced by firemen when they were unable to get sufficient pressure from the water mains. Another hazard that confronted the firemen was the number of parked cars near the scene and to be about 2000.

Four families were driven from their homes as the spreading fire threatened to destroy their homes on Richdale ave.: They were M. J. Tierney of 182, William McMahon of 184, Gus Tierney of 186 and H. Henson of 188. Other families in the vicinity sought safety outside the fire lines.

Police Fire Shots at Auto Strippers

James Mariano of Cambridge was captured by state troopers after several shots were fired in Framingham the last night when three men were discovered stripping parked automobiles. The other two men escaped, but one Clovis Smith of Worcester was taken into custody. Morrissey and Smith were held in bonds of $5000 each for trial.

Girl, Three, Goes for Walk Clad in Nightie

Only three, Gertrude Belmonte slipped out of her home at 6 Bachelder ter., Roxbury, early today and went on an exploration of several blocks clad only in a night gown before police picked her up. The child was taken to Station 10 where she was claimed by her brother William, 19, and taken home despite her protests because she was having so much fun being entertained by police at the station.

Waltham Children at Safety Show

More than 2500 children attending a safety show at the Embassy Theater, Waltham, yesterday, listened to a description of his native land by Joseph Beasley Franklin chief executive of Waltham Crown England, who is the Tercentenary Lord of the Watch City.

Mayor Patrick J. Duane, Chief of Police Richard Currin, Fire Chief George L. Johnson, John C. Clair and Mrs. Gertrude M. Pitnum were speakers. The members of the Waltham Safety Council were also guests.

Norwood Theater in Bankruptcy

A creditors petition in bankruptcy against the Empire Theatre Co. Norwood was filed today with the clerk of the United States Court by Radio Keith-Orpheum Distributing Corporation of New York, the only creditor. The amount is $3825 for money it is alleged is owed on contract for films.

Fair and Cool Weekend Hub's Forecast After Rain

Clear on the heels of the cool spell came intermittent rains today with more intensity than the city has experienced in many days. In an early prediction today the weather man said these rains would continue throughout the day and probably tonight.

Th week-end will probably be fair, but with much cooler weather than is usually the case at this time of the year.

SIX INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Six persons were injured today when two automobiles met in collision at the junction of North Beacon and Brooks st., Brighton.

The victims, who were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, suffering from cuts, are Mrs. Olive Waters, Charles Waters and John Waters, all of Jerome ave., Newton; Mrs. Daniel McCarthy and John McCarthy, both of Brackett st., Brighton, and George Feinberg, Garland st., Chelsea.

According to police Mrs. Waters was operating the machine, containing five of those injured, and Feinberg was riding alone in another car. The Waters machine was badly damaged, one side being ripped open.

Soldiers to March to Artillery Range

About 2600 officers and men of the regular army stationed in New England are preparing for long-distance marches to the artillery range near Underhill Center, Vt. They will concentrate there for field training and maneuvers during the month of September.

The first two weeks will be occupied with field firing and anti-aircraft problems. The remainder of the period will be devoted to tactical exercises culminating in a review by Brig.-Gen. Meriwether L. Walker on Sept. 20.

MERCHANTS ASK PARKING BAN

The new traffic ban, announced last night, has failed to bring relief to Province st., according to merchants on that thoroughfare, who are organized to obtain a no-parking regulation in the district.

Province st., extending from School to Bromfield st., and recently widened at great cost, is clogged with traffic daily, largely owing to the automobiles parked on both sides.

Truck drivers, attempting to load or deliver goods, are forced to violate the law by double parking, or return with their loads undelivered.

Merchants on Federal st., on the other hand, were much pleased by the announcement that under the new rule, parking is prohibited in Federal st., from Dewey sq., to Milk st., where parking now interferes with deliveries.

WOULD HONOR BULFINCH

The board of directors of the American Institute of Architects are making efforts to elect Charles Bulfinch, noted Boston architect, to the Hall of Fame. Bulfinch was born at Bowdoin sq., August 8, 1763, son of Dr. Thomas Bulfinch and Susan Apthorp Bulfinch. He died April 15, 1844.

The board has sent to each elector of the Hall of Fame an exhaustive summary of the achievements of Bulfinch, described as a statesman as well as an architect.

Josiah Quincy, Boston's second mayor, in his municipal history of Boston, said:

"Few men deserve to be held by the citizens of Boston in more grateful remembrance than Charles Bulfinch."

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

POWER CHARGES OF CUMMINGS DENIED BY ELY

Says His Law Practice Has Nothing to Do With Utility Matters

Joseph R. Ely, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, today issued a denial of charges made by John J. Cummings, one of his opponents that he was linked with the power trust.

The charges were contained in a public letter to Ely, and Cummings demanded an answer.

In a brief statement Ely said:

"I have no connection whatever with the power trust. Mr. Cummings is laboring under a misapprehension.

"The fact of my association with the law firm of Hayes, Gray, Boyden & Perkins has evidently formulated the thought that my political ideals are dictated by the will of others.

"My practice in Boston is solely in the trial of cases in the courts of Massachusetts and of the United States and has nothing whatever to do with legislative or utility matters."

TIME LIMIT UP

With the time limit for filing withdrawals of political candidates expiring at 5 p. m. today, Democratic leaders, after a series of secret conferences, were not hopeful of any material change in the primary lineup.

Chairman Frank J. Donahue of the Democratic state committee, who has been battling for weeks for a ticket based on geographical and other lines, it was learned, had practically decided that further efforts to bring this about would be a waste of energy.

The receipt of a substantial check from former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald at Democratic state headquarters for primary purposes, has done more than anything else to silence the talk of a last minute withdrawal from the gubernatorial race.

Ely, Fitzgerald's opponent, is in the fight to stay.

The chief interest in today's developments will center around the candidacy of former Gov. Eugene N. Foss for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator. Foss, an ardent dry, has indicated that he will stay in, but a last-minute decision to get out of the contest would surprise few.

BAN AUTO PARKING IN DOWNTOWN AREA

NEW SUBWAY DISTRICT IS AFFECTED

Eight Streets in Business Section Hit by Drastic No-Parking Regulation

In the most drastic traffic rule yet promulgated, parking has been entirely banned in part of the downtown business district by the Boston traffic commission, effective August 30.

The edict is in accordance with the suggestion of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, together with financial and business organizations. Alternate parking, however, will be allowed on 21 principal thoroughfares entering and leaving the city.

The no-parking area is bounded by Washington, State, Kilby, Milk, Congress, Franklin and Arch sts.

Parking is also prohibited in Federal st. from Dewey sq. to Milk st. to provide a direct route from the South to the North station. In addition no parking of vehicles will be allowed in any part of Commonwealth ave. between Governor sq. and Charlesgate West, during the next two years while work is being done on the new subway extension.

The left turn from Governor sq. into Beacon st. is also prohibited, which means that all inbound traffic must travel along Commonwealth ave.

The streets from which parking is entirely banned are Exchange pl. from Congress to Kilby st., Water st. between Devonshire and Kilby sts., Milk st. between Devonshire and Oliver sts., Franklin st. between Devonshire and Congress sts., Devonshire st. between State and Franklin sts., Arch st. between Milk and Franklin sts., Federal st. between Milk and Summer sts., and Congress st. between Milk and Franklin sts.

ALTERNATE PARKING

Parking is also banned on the north side of Belvidere st., Back Bay, from St. Cecilia st. to Massachusetts ave. and in Hawkins st., West End, from Chardon st. to Sudbury st.

Streets affected by the alternate parking rule are Huntington ave. from Massachusetts ave. to Broadway, Shawmut ave. from Massachusetts ave. to Stuart st., Stuart st. from Huntington ave. to Arlington st., Huntington ave. from Massachusetts ave. to Boylston st., Boylston st. from Massachusetts ave. to Arlington st.; Beacon st. between Hereford and Charlesgate E.; Arlington st., from Beacon st. to Commonwealth ave.; Mt. Vernon st., from Embankment rd. to Derne st.; Charles st., from Cambridge st. to Beacon st.

FINE IS INCREASED

Portland st., between Causeway and Hanover sts.; Everett st. between Causeway st. and Washington st., North; Washington st., North, between Causeway st. and Haymarket sq.; Congress st., from Dorchester ave. to Franklin st., Kneeland st., from Washington st. to Atlantic ave., Atlantic ave., from Summer st. to Broad st.

Summer st., from Arch st. to Dewey sq.; Broad st., from Atlantic ave. to State st.; State st., from McKinley sq. to Congress st.; Hanover st., from Scollay sq. to Blackstone st.; Broadway, from Park sq. to Piedmont st.; Piedmont st., from Charles st. to Green st.

To aid the police in prosecuting offenders, the traffic rules have been changed to provide a maximum fine of $50 for offenses instead of $20 as at present.

PRAISES NEW RULE

Merrill Grigwold, speaking for the committee on street parking control, expressed the members' satisfaction at the action of the traffic commission which he said has clarified the situation and promises to put Boston in the forefront of Metropolitan cities.

He praised Mayor Curley and Traffic Commissioner Conry for their cooperation in getting action sought by the committee on street parking control and the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

He pointed out that on the streets affected, passenger cars will be allowed five minutes to take on or discharge passengers, and commercial vehicles will be given 20 minutes.

Notables to Arrive on Laconia Sunday

The Cunard Line steamship Laconia, from Liverpool and Queenstown, is due here Sunday.

Among those aboard are, Rt. Rev. Samuel G. Babcock, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts; Robert Lincoln O'Brien, former Boston newspaper publisher; Charles B. Barnes, corporation lawyer, and Mrs. Barnes, Bishop John T. Dallas of New Hampshire and H. Lee Washington, former United States consul general in London.

John L. McDonald of Huron ave., Cambridge, yesterday withdrew as a candidate for the Democratic state committee in the second Middlesex district, leaving Joseph M. Stokes, president of the Cambridge City Council, alone in the field.

Awaiting Return of Missing Pet

LIFE DOESN'T SEEM so bright for Robert Keating of 209 3rd st., South Boston, since his pet collie, "Teddy," disappeared. Keating has been crippled for several years. He has asked the Boston Evening American to assist in locating the missing pet.

SWIM CARNIVAL LURES BEST

With entries continuing to pour in the Boston Evening American swimming races for girls and young women loom up as the most significant contests of their kind ever held in New England.

The Boston Evening American is conducting the events under the auspices of the New England A. A. U. At least 150 girls and young women are expected to participate in the several events. Already entries have been received indicating that almost every section of Greater Boston will be represented and every state in New England.

Veteran natators and youngsters aspiring to the championship heights, are enrolled in the number to compete.

Events will include the New England A. A. U. mile, 220 yards back stroke, 100 yards free style, 880 yards free style, 220 yards breast-stroke, 50 yards free style for girls under 14 years, 10 yards free style novice and fancy diving.

Late entrants include Rose A. McGlone, 13, of Fisher st., Natick; Virginia Boudreau, 15, of Foch st., North Cambridge; Dorothy Naughton, 10, of 802 Pleasant st., Stoughton; Margaret Beathe, 16, of 7 Pleasant st., Medford, and Shirley M. Blackwell, 11, of 33 Faulkner st., Dorchester.

The official entry blank for the swim is printed in this newspaper. Fill it out and send it to either the Girls' Swim Editor, Boston Evening American, 3 Winthrop sq., Boston, or, H. gradlee Fenno, president of the Boston Swimming Association.

Reports Son Born in South Africa

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Orner, formerly of Northampton, who recently went to Rhodesia, South Africa, as missionaries, have just reported to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions the birth of a son, Henry Nathan, on June 29. Mr. Orner, former assistant superintendent of a large Boston concern, is an industrial missionary teaching native boys how to make bricks, roads, and do carpentry.

Parochial Teachers to Attend Institute

Sessions of the 21st annual Institute for the religious teachers of Parochial schools of the Archdiocese of Boston will open Monday, Aug. 25, in the hall of Boston College High school and continue through the following Friday. Over 1000 teachers are expected to attend the daily sessions of the institute.

Man Arrested for Burning Fiend Alive

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 15 (AP)—John Outler, 24, was burned to death and Dave Golden, a companion, was under arrest today. He is accused of throwing gasoline on Outler and setting him afire during a drinking party.

Bar Inner Tubes as Safety Device for Quincy Bathers

Automobile inner tubes for swimming purposes are barred at the Quincy municipal beaches in an order issued today by the Quincy park board.

This order applies to two beaches, both at Quincy Point, one known as Avalon Beach and the other in front of the Quincy Point bathhouse.

Action was taken because of several near drownings when patrons came off the tubes or children got the tubes tangled in them. Lifeguards Joseph Reardon and William Sullivan, who have made many rescues this summer, were ordered to prevent children and adults from using the tubes.

Cancer Deaths in Boston Increase

Boston cancer deaths increased from 1227 in 1928 to 1286 in 1929, an increase of 59, according to a statement made by Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician, of the Prudential Insurance Company.

In the State of Massachusetts the number of deaths from cancer increased from 5611 in 1928 to 5672 in 1929. The cancer death rate of 48 cities with a population of 30,000-000, increased from 71.6 in 1906, to 117.8 in 1928.

CRIPPLE SEEKS LOST COLLIE

Robert Keating, 29, and married, a cripple for several years, has asked the public through the Boston Evening American to locate his pet collie that disappeared yesterday from his home, 209 3d st., South Boston.

Friends gave him the dog which answers to the name of Teddy. It is brown and was wearing a collar at the time.

"My husband has been paralyzed since he was injured while working for a lumber company. He is losing his speech. His voice grows weaker every day," Mrs. Keating declared today.

His wife is his only companion. She has to carry him each morning from his bed to the window. Keating cannot move any part of his body.

Legion to Have P. O. During Convention

Members of the American Legion attending the national convention, to be held here Oct. 6-8 will have their own post office during the convention period, according to a report submitted by William Carlin, chairman of the postal affairs committee.

The post office will be located in the First Corps Cadets armory on Columbus ave., and will be manned by an experienced crew of postal clerks.

$47,000,000,000 Stamps?

HAD THESE GERMAN STAMPS been issued before the World War, their value would have been $17,000,000,000! But Miss Joyce Dana, Boston philatelist, assures us that they're now nothing but a curiosity, worth perhaps 50 cents. They are the property of Fernald Hutchins, whose collections of rare stamps are on display at the National Stamp Show at Horticultural Hall. (Staff photo.)

CANDIDATES IN STATE INCREASE

There are 85 more candidates for election offices this year than in 1928, according to figures made public today by Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook.

One thousand four hundred and twelve candidates, both Republicans and Democrats, have filed papers for elective offices from governor to state committeeman as compared with 1327 in 1928. Of this year's total 817 are Republicans and 595 are Democrats.

Secretary Cook's compilation shows that 5602 papers were filed for ward and town committeemen as against 5268 in 1928. There was a decrease, however, this year of Democratic candidates for ward and town committeemen. This year's total is 3771, as compared with 4264 two years ago.

Brennan Opens Fight for Berth in Council

Ex-Senator James H. Brennan of Charlestown, Democratic candidate for the Governor's Council, opened his campaign in Roxbury last night by addressing several rallies and house parties.

He declared that although Boston must pay more than $5,000,000 as its share of the Metropolitan district taxes, that the city has no representation on the Metropolitan District Commission. He said that he would seek the appointment of two Democrats.

Change in Site of Bathhouse Asked

Rep. Richard D. Crockwell of Medford filed with the clerk of the Legislature today a bill which would permit the Metropolitan district commission to transfer the location of the proposed $50 000 bathhouse from the Upper Mystic Lake in Winchester, to the Lower Mystic.

His action follows the protest of Winchester residents, backed by the Winchester Chamber of Commerce and the selectmen of the town, against the construction of the proposed bathhouse within Winchester.

Auto His Home, Held for Stealing One

Albert O'Brien, who says he lives in his automobile, appeared in Quincy court today before Judge Albert Avery on a charge of larceny of an automobile. The court found probable cause to hold O'Brien in $1,000 bond for the Superior Court. O'Brien was arrested August 10 in Milton.

Watertown Couple Married 50 Years

In celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guiesian, 203 School st., Watertown, will be given a reception at their home, by friends of the family.

Both are natives of Armenia and came to this country in 1895 after escaping a massacre. They have five children, four sons and one daughter.

JOE COOK HAS WEIRD GOLF COURSE

Joe Cook, star of the Columbia screen version of the successful stage play, "Rain or Shine," opening at the New B. F. Keith's theaters, has constructed what he calls the world's goofiest golf course on his estate at Lake Hopatcong, New Jersey. It is described as a weird nine-hole concoction. To get from one tee to one green you have to drive through a length of 10-foot cast iron pipe. The tee for the fourth hole is on top of a 40-foot water tower. Once on the top, however, you find a well kept grass plot, equipped with a sand box and water bucket.

From this you drive off to a green surrounded by a moat which is also used as a private swimming pool for the Cook children. This is a short hole, and you ought to make the green in one; but if you don't, you have to fish your ball out of the water.

The big feature of the course is another short hole. It's an easy drive right on the green, which, however, is laid out at the top of the mound. If you don't make it on top of the mound you are out of luck, but if you do make it, you are very much in luck, for the green itself is saucer-shaped and the ball, once in it, rolls by gravity unerringly into the hole and you've made a hole in one.

Then the ball, having rolled into the hole, continues through a pipe which comes out at the side of the mound, terminating in a desk. There one also finds engraved "hole-in-on-" certificates, which you fill out on the spot, have attested, and carry off with you.

In "Rain or Shine," in which Mr. Cook heads a cast including Louise Fazenda, Joan Peers, William Collier, Jr., and Tom Howard, he gives further proof of his inimitable brand of wit.

"COMMON CLAY" SCORES ON METROPOLITAN SCREEN

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

IF THE SAFETY VALVES on your tear glands are in good working order, you might be forehanded in taking in the Metropolitan show this week. If given to "the wheps" you should certainly take along a "hanky." It will come in handy. For our old friend, "Common Clay," Boston-born and Harvard-bred, is with us again. This is, if we can remember correctly, its third appearance; yet is the first on the throated screen.

PLAYGOERS WILL RECALL John Craig's prize offer, and the outcome from Prof. Baker's drama class at Harvard. Claire Kinkead, among other students of the drama turned in a piece. Mr. Craig put it on at the old Castle Square; his stock folk did it well, and also did well with it financially. It ran a number of weeks. It was good box office matter. Then, about 11 years or so ago, the same piece was done in silent picture form. Movie fans will recall it distinctly. Now the script is again taken from the shelf; Victor Fleming directs. Fox produces. It is still the same old "Common Clay," despite some changes.

Constance Bennett

THE STORY, MOST of you perhaps remember, handles the fortune of a lass who starts wrong but turns over a new leaf. It is a rough and rugged road for quite a number of miles, but the curtain finds it true that all's well that ends well. As presented now in the talking film version "Common Clay" seems at times absurdity theatric and old-fashioned. It is reminiscent of "East Lynne," it plays the old chords so sonorously and blatantly. It is melodrama done to a turn and served up with rich sauce.

BERYL MERCER STANDS high out of a pretty good cast. This little lady, who may be counted on to make the movie stars seem dim, does a masterly bit as the supposed mother of the heroine. Miss Mercer has art that is apt to steal the thunder of the gods; she does it here. Constance Bennett, not so good at the start, breaks out nobly later in the picture, and is at her best in emotional sequences.

ON STAGE, PUBLIX presents a novelty revue, entitled "The Toy Shop," colorful, and very entertaining. Among the featured folk are the Gomez Trio, fine dancers in Spanish style; Hyde & Burrell and Dick Henderson.

Just outside Brattle on Cambridge, on Brattle st., is the home of The Cambridge Social Union, once known as Brattle House. It might have been called the showplace of New England.

The first possessor of the estate was Simon Crosby. He died in 1639 and Simon, Jr., came into possession. He sold the land to Thomas Lanchester, town swimmer, in 1652. Next in possession was David Deming, who sold the western portion to Andrew Belcher and the eastern end to Rev. William Brattle.

Rev. William Brattle was the minister of the First Church in Cambridge. He served the First Church from 1696 until 1717, when he died.

In 1697, William Brattle married Elizabeth Hayman. He had two sons, Thomas and William. Thomas died in childhood, and William became the heir. He was born in 1708, and at 11 his father's death occurred.

He was graduated from Harvard at 17, married Katherine, daughter of Governor Saltonstall, at 21, and began to build a home in 1727.

The house was gambrel-roofed and two stories, with an attic. It was a large establishment for those days, with stables and sheds and other outhouses.

At 23 Brattle became justice of the peace and selectman, holding the latter position 21 years. He was captain of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, later adjutant-general. He was appointed major-general of all the militia throughout the province, and was loyal to the British government.

The house later became a students' lodging house, and finally occupied by the Cambridge Social Union and the Red Cross. The street upon which it stands has been called by the family name, as well as the square near by.

The village smithy and the "spreading chestnut tree" under which it stood was on the estate of the Brattles. A chair was made from the wood of the tree and presented by the children of Cambridge to their beloved poet Longfellow.

Sandwiches That Are New and Interesting

From Martha Lee's Friday morning broadcast over WHDH by the Boston Evening American.

THE SANDWICH problem we have always with us, either for the picnic basket, porch parties or summer bridge refreshments and so far this week I've received 32 requests for some new and different sandwiches.

Yesterday I dug through all my files and, behold today I have some things which I hope are going to be new to you.

Martha Lee

First, a chicken mayonnaise filling made by mincing leftover chicken and adding to one and a half cups of chicken, one tablespoon of minced chow-chow pickle one-third cup of finely minced green pepper and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Spread this generously between slices of well buttered whole wheat bread and I think the family will report favorably.

The men folks seem especially enthusiastic over Chilaly sandwiches. For this filling, mix thoroughly 2 tablespoons of butter, 2 tablespoons of chopped green peppers, 2 tablespoons of chopped onion, ½ cup of canned tomato or stewed tomato, ¼ of a pound of soft mild factory cheese, ½ of a teaspoon of salt, a dash of cayenne pepper and 1 well beaten egg. Cook in a double boiler until smooth and thick. Chill and spread between well-buttered whole wheat bread.

Pineapple, nut and cheese sandwiches are truly delicious and are prepared by beating half a cup of cream cheese until very smooth. To this add one half cup of finely chopped nut meats and one-half cup of well drained shredded pineapple. Mix well and spread between thinly sliced buttered or unbuttered brown bread.

Sweet Pickle Sandwiches are good too and for these you can use corned tongue, pickled lamb's tongue or other cold meats. You will need enough to make one and a half cupfuls after mincing. Now mash a quarter cup of roquefort cheese add the meat and a quarter cup of minced sweet pickle. Work in enough mayonnaise to make a paste and use this as a filling for buttered rye bread. A lettuce leaf and a thin slice of tomato for each is an improvement.

Open Sandwiches are especially appropriate and attractive for porch parties and bridge refreshments and for them I am very fond of Boston brown bread, well buttered and cut in half inch thick slices. Oatmeal bread is delicious too, or of course, if you prefer, plain white bread. I like to cut these open sandwiches into small rounds with my smallest biscuit cutter and then into crescents triangles and finger pieces. I don't need to remind you that butter goes further if it's creamed until soft but not runny. With the brown bread well buttered, spread with a generous layer of cream cheese or pimiento cheese mixed with anchovy paste or tuna fish paste—you can get a lot in a tube for 25 cents. Don't put any top on these sandwiches but garnish the filling with thin slices of olives cut crosswise and a little tree of parsley for the center, or a topping of finely chopped parsley or finely grated carrots or chopped pickle relish or yolk of hard-boiled eggs put through a potato ricer. These can be mixed with the riced hard boiled egg whites if you like, also, and some people go further and blend cream cheese with enough butter to make it possible to put it through your cake decorator and then put on an edge of this cream cheese and butter mixture to further decorate these attractive sandwiches.

If you like roquefort cheese as well as I do, try creaming a half-cup of roquefort with two tablespoons of soft butter and enough olive oil to make a smooth paste. Spread this evenly on slices of buttered whole wheat bread and cover with a second slice.

Other dainty sandwich combinations are made with drained crushed pineapple mixed with an equal quantity of cottage cheese, seasoned with a little melted butter and salt.

Horseradish Sandwiches are good made from equal parts of strained honey and creamed butter. This mixture should be beaten together until rich and crisp.

India Sandwiches are made of cottage cheese beaten with butter and salt and half as much India relish. Use this on bread very liberally.

Of course, we are all familiar with orange marmalade as a sandwich filling, but add to it chopped dates or chopped figs and see the difference.

Candied ginger chopped and mixed with mayonnaise or cream makes an unusual sandwich filling and especially if a few chopped candied cherries are added to it. And chopped olives with pimiento cheese is popular, too. And I do hope you will try chilled lemon gelatine to which has been added chopped nuts, chopped candied cherries, figs, raisins and pineapple. Spread this between buttered slices of fresh bread and you'll have something really yummy.

I still have literally scores of other sandwich fillings that I'd like to pass along to you, but perhaps you've had enough for now. If you should want others, however, you know my address—5 Winthrop sq., in care of this paper.

Faithfully yours,
Martha Lee

For those of us who are just returning after vacations and the forefingers of who are saving for over Labor Day, here's Mr. Budget shakes a warning finger over the household expenditures. Say, my next engagement is here for dinner this Sunday and I'm going to have lamb chops at 32 cents per lb. and lamb stew at 25 cents per lb. and a fancy breakfast of cream chipped beef at 35 cents, lamb kidneys at 15 to 17 cents and pork liver and all sorts of other delicacies that are cheap. Cauliflower and beets are in the market, and yellow squash. Beans are also on hand, and the usual vegetables.

Lamb chops are pretty high at 35 to 45 cents a pound. Lamb stew is about 20 cents a pound and native corn 25 cents a dozen. Good sweet grown tomatoes are selling as 8 and 12½ cents in the chain stores. A determined man, small in some ways, but having a large outfit, raped from a farm arriving at Washington last week and gain a foot as he could to the offices of the Federal Farm Relief Board. Naturally, he was panting when he burst into Chairman Legge's office. But, breathless, he managed to propose a plan which will doubtless bring prosperity back to the soil. In short, he proposed Federal aid in establishing sanitation and sewers throughout the whole land. He pleaded eloquently, and convinced Mr. Legge that such action would cut down the plentiful wheat acreage—thus boosting prices—and, better still would cut drought, the time farmers waste plowing and harvesting their crops. The man's name, he finally said, was Hamlet.

Alphonse Puts Greta in Raquel's Place as Queen of Beauty

CHAPTER 68

As soon as she could do so without arousing Jerry to an unreasonable protest against her being so much as "out of my sight," Raquel sought a telephone.

She must know what the specialist meant by summoning her to New York. Jerry had assured her he was feeling better, much better.

"I'm as fit as a fiddle again," he laughed, "now that you're back." He looked it too, except for the faint shadows under his eyes and a certain lassitude that was foreign to him.

The assurance of the specialist that "there is nothing new, Mrs. Parker, nothing," left her with that giddiness and weakness she must overcome.

"I thought it better to have you here," Dr. Regan explained. "Your husband is a very difficult patient without you. No names and frets. Your absence seemed to upset him to such a degree that I have been unable properly to gauge his condition. I knew you'd want to help me all you could."

Of course, she wanted to help. But that foolish Jerry! He was a spoiled boy. If he knew what his impatience had cost her! She felt the warm night wind of the desert in her face. Gallopine swiftly under the stars and scudding clouds toward a huddle of huts in the darkness . . .

Greta as Queen
At Alphonse's Party

The afternoon mail brought long letter from Greta.

I've left the soft spot in Neuilly," she wrote. "It was a morgue after you quit is cold. Back at the Ritz. The same old squirrel in the same old cage."

Raquel gave a little sigh of satisfaction. It was good to be home, safe and secure, with Jerry.

Hold everything now, dearie, while I give you the dirt about Uncle Alphonse," Greta's letter continued. "Well, he certainly take it off the deep end when he heard you'd gone and thrown him down, as the saying is. They never do. Not his kind.

"He tore right back to Paris and threw a party that made the Louis fete look like a kid's game of post office. And whom do you think he set up as Queen of Beauty? No one, darling, but your old friend Greta. Quit laughing. I was a wow.

"You get the drift, don't you? I did, pronto. The idea was to make the Ritz believe that around here helpus that it was me he was goofy over all the time. You've got to hand it to Alphonse, dearie. He's nobody's Dumb Daniel. He put it over, and I helped him. In fact, I'm still playing the part.

"Does it cost him plenty? Dearie, I've got a diamond-studded toothbrush. Any time he shows signs of weakening, I threaten to take my dishes and go home. Then he sits up and begs and I name my price. He'd like to choke me, but he's got to go on cheering. Ain't we got fun?

"The next time you darn Jerry's socks, put a knot in 'em for me."

Greta, the Queen of Beauty, is in blanc. The Queen is dead. Long live the Queen. One should feel pity for a queen bereft of her throne. And if one didn't . . .

Clever Alphonse. After all, had she ever been more than an incident in his life, another bauble for his gallery of art? She knew she had been more than that. But the world would never know. And after all, she felt sure, he would come to doubt that she had been more himself. The humming-bird was never long without its fancy for a flower.

It was incredible, Raquel thought, the way Pancho fitted himself into his new environment.

She had always been scornful of the tongue-worn adage, "Blood will tell." Pancho, she had believed, was living evidence of the fallacy of it. For all he gave of his birthright, he might have been born in some miserable Mexican mountain village infested by the cankrifs of civilization—the son of a bandit and a cowhanded Indian squaw.

Now she saw her conclusion came of her own revolt against his inferiors. He was no longer the raging tromping "toro male." There was in him such finer as could show itself in as fine a grain as that other lobe had shown coarse. In the matter of clothes, for example, he had been at once amenable.

"I want you to accept a loan from me," Raquel told him. "It is money I earned myself—as a model."

She did not tell him the reason for the loan. It was not necessary for her to do so. He appeared, shortly thereafter, clipped and trim—a careful but colorful, exhibition. The eyes of women followed him, as the eyes of men followed her. He was, indeed, a magnificent specimen of a man. Like an eagle, pulled from its nest and thrust into a cushioned cage.

Lucy Moves
Buys Furnishings

Lucy wrote that she had moved into a four-room dobe house. She had bought a hand-drawn tablecloth of Mexican work with napkins to match, lose played all day on the front porch. He was possessed by the witchery of the sounds he could draw from it. Sonita had a hat with a wreath of daisies on it—she would have daisies, Raquel thought. And Emilio ate so much of the sweets from the big box Raquel sent that he was sick and had to take two cupfuls of brewed herbs.

Things were turning out very well, Raquel thought. She had found security, content. She found abundant time to study new and exotic ways of cultivating the beauty that, she believed, had fascinated Jerry, despite his protest it was the soul of her he loved.

Mention of this unusual and startling beauty had begun to creep into the society columns of the metropolitan newspapers. A celebrated artist had begged her to sit for a portrait. A staggering with a staggering circulation had asked her to write an article in which she would explain to women some of the secrets of her charm and her toilet table.

Even commercialism sought to benefit by her beauty. A firm famous for its synthetic pearls had solicited her to wear a strand of its product twined in her ashen hair, to show the possibilities of pearls as a headdress for evening. If she would allow them to use such a photograph for their advertising campaign, along with those of other ladies of fashion in the social world, they would be pleased to send her a check for two thousand dollars—for her pet charity.

Two thousand dollars! A little while ago two thousand dollars would have been the difference between squalid poverty and decent living. It would have mended the chinks in the crumbling dobe hut. Bought Lucy shoes that could cover her toes in them. There would have been a new red silk dress, soft clinging silk, not sleazy imitation. There would have been no gaping, tittering crowd to listen to her marriage banns—here with a grandchild of Montezuma in the Church of the Blessed Virgin.

Two thousand dollars! Freedom—when she wanted it, needed it so desperately. Such a sum was fortune—then. And now, when it was here for a nod of the head it was nothing.

"Beauty, hidden away where no one sees it or cares about it, escapes both fame and acquaintance. It is better than ugliness," she thought. "It must be placed in a show-window."

She rejoiced that she was able to command a show-window.

THE BEAUTY BOX
By Helen Follett

SOMETIMES a blackhead will form in a pore from which no eyelash emerges. Rubbing the eyelid sets up an irritation and a stye appears, than which there is nothing more distressing to the candidate for beauty honors. Applications of vaseline every night to the eyelids will not only soften the pore barricades, but will promote a thicker, longer growth of eye curtains.

Don't worry about round shoulders! Worry about the spinal column. If the backbone is held properly, if body posture hasn't any slack, the shoulders will be normal, muscular structures, solid and flexible. There should be an inward curve at the spine at the waistline. That position throws the chest high and full, sends the hips back, flattens the tumtum and gives easy poise to the shoulders and a queenly poise to the head. Something to remember.

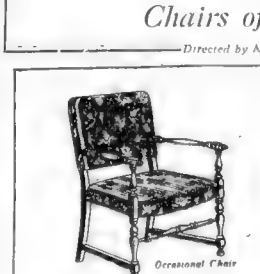
What's in Fashion?
Chairs of Comfort
Directed by AMOS PARRISH



NEW YORK, Aug. 15—What's the first thing you notice in fashion-knowing living rooms (after one quick glance to see the general scheme of decoration)? What's a living room for, anyway?

The answer to that is: Comfort. Comfort first and last. The fashionable living room knows it, too. And that's why you'll find in it the kinds of chairs that are comfortable.

They're chairs to come home from the office to. And to read the papers in. Chairs to sink into with a sigh of relief after the worries are put to bed. Chairs that the casual guest hates to leave.

Fashionable chairs are built for ease. They neither hold your back stiff as a ramrod . . . nor twist your spine into tortured curlycues. They neither thrust your knees at a heaven-bent angle nor leave you up-tree a-groping for the floor. They don't smother you with the overwrought depths. Nor do they leave you perched precariously on a slippery slope.

Fashionable chairs this fall are just right! They're exactly low enough. Their backs are at exactly the right comfortable angle. Their seats are deep and soft enough . . . but not too much so.

Four Popular Types

There are at least four of these comfortable chairs that you've seen time and time again in comfort-knowing living rooms. And you're going to keep seeing them, more and more of them.

Because the check-ups we're constantly making are furnishing fashion shows these chairs to be four of the best-liked of any chairs.

One is the lounge chair. And it's exactly that . . . as you can see in the illustration. A good chair to lounge in. Low to the ground, deep and sturdy.

Wing Chair

Another is a chair that's been in fashion over 200 years. And any fashion must be pretty good to last that long. It's the wing chair, like the one sketched.

Occasional Chair

Every fashionable living room has at least one chair that looks as though it were intended for many things. And it's apply called an "occasional" chair.

There are occasions when you use it at the bridge table. Occasions when it serves as a master chair at the living room-dining room table.

The one sketched is a favorite type. It's suggestive of the Jacobean era in its turned legs and stretchers.

Any of these chairs fit into the average interior period or non-period. And they help to put a period feeling into a room . . . without a noticeable strain on the budget.

"What's in Fashion" in Metrotone News at State Theater

The current week's release of the Hearst Metrotone News, at the Loew's State Theater, features a special showing of the latest things in fashion, sponsored by Amos Parrish & Co., America's foremost authority on apparel. The film is shown five times daily at 12:55 p. m., 3 p. m., 5:10 p. m., 7:18 p. m. and 9:25 p. m. It will continue through tomorrow.

It started way back in Queen Anne's time. It's been modernized, of course, to fit in with modern living. But you can see in the sketch the typical Queen Anne cabriole legs, flared back and recessed arms.

We said the lounge chair was a splendid chair for a man. Well . . . here's one that is lovely for a woman. Another Queen Anne type . . . but without the wings.

It has the serpentine back that makes a charming frame for a pretty head. The seat is just the right height to display the flowing lines of modern skirts. The whole atmosphere of this chair is one of delicacy and femininity.

But it's quite adequate to accommodate a male sit-fooler!

The Marry-Go-Round
By HELEN ROWLAND
Marriage Is Marriage!

A WIFE is the only guaranteed safety device for protecting an impressionable man against women.

It's funny how a man, who would be far too wise or cautious to put a commercial line on paper, simply can't resist the temptation to have himself "snapped" in his bathing suit beside a dazzling mermaid.

There are a saint and a Circe in every woman; and, in the same woman, a good man may see the eternal Circe, and a rake the eternal saint—because that is what each of them happens to be looking for.

Some husbands appear to take off their office attability with their office coats, and to bring home only their threadbare nerves and their frayed interests under their topcoats.

The caution with which a bachelor plays the sentimental game is surpassed only by the careless rapture with which a married man plunges into every flirtation.

When a man brings his wife home a bottle of unusually alluring perfume, after "a little business trip," somehow, she can't help wondering where he got the IDEA.

Love, happiness and a lot of things in life may be vague and indefinite, but marriage is marriage, a flivver is a flivver, and a fortieth birthday is an unequivocal calamity.

Grandmother MAY have been a clinging vine, as they tell us, but in the old-fashioned daguerreotype she certainly appears to be "holding Grandfather down" with that firm, small hand on his shoulder.

A man's idea of "luck in love" consists in getting safely and gracefully out of a sentimental affair before he gets too far in it.

After marriage, alas, the flame of love so often subsides into a smouldering resentment.

How to Keep Well
By DR. R. S. COPELAND

Rest Your Eyes

IN THESE modern days we put the eyes to task calling for a high degree of muscular and nervous effort. People go on without ever thinking of giving the eyes a rest or even a brief interval. This is a mistake.

Employers of labor sometimes neglect to provide proper conditions to guard the eyes against fatigue. Dr. Copeland

Employees, if asked, rarely take precautions, if taken, prevent wear and tear of the eyes. It seems essential to best efforts on the job.

And on the other hand, many workmen are perfectly reckless with their eyes. Only too often symptoms of eye defect develop, and then if they are neglected serious damage to the vision is sure to result.

The organ of vision is such a delicate structure that when the vision is once lowered it can rarely be restored. This distressing effect may be from anyone of a number of different causes.

The skilled workman should be allowed frequent rest periods so that the eyesight may be saved. It is a great mistake to work for a long without eye rest, except the briefest interval of blinking when the eyelid covers the eye for the fraction of a second.

These must be put in against the workman's urge to take a look away from his work to his neighbor. This eye-rest business is a part of Nature's way of preserving the sight.

No matter what the vision record of an individual may have been previously, there comes a time in the life of nearly every man and woman when the eyes need examination and the application of glasses. The individual who does any extensive amount of study—reading, needlework or other work requiring close vision, is sure to feel a declining power of vision around the age of 40 to 50 years.

This condition comes from two causes. The first of them is a slight hardening of the crystalline lens situated just back of the pupil of the eye. It does not change its shape or "focus" so readily as it did earlier in life. Second, there is a lessening degree of elasticity of the focusing muscles inside the eyeball. These muscles are continuously acting to reshape the lens so as to make it give good vision at different distances.

When you find you have to push your work or your reading a couple of inches farther off, or when the finer lines or markings of your work are seen with effort then the time has come to have your eyes examined carefully. Properly fitted glasses or spectacles will usually clear up the trouble.

Answers to Health Queries.

J. Huser. Q. What should a boy weigh who is 15 years old and 5 feet 11 inches tall?

A—For his age and height he should weigh about 150 pounds.

2—Do you think I get rid of boils?

A—For his age and height he should weigh about 150 pounds.

3—Do you think I get rid of boils?

A—For his age and height he should weigh about 150 pounds.

2—Do you think I have a physical examination to determine just what the cause of your trouble is? Make sure that you are not troubled with constipation. Treatment depends upon the cause.

A Daily Reader. Q.—What is the cause of dark eyelids becoming thick and pink? The daylight seems to hurt my eyes and they always look tired.

A.—Your eyes are probably sore and inflamed and it would be advisable to consult an eye specialist for an examination. Perhaps it may be necessary for you to wear glasses for work.

Anxious. Q.—What causes hyperacidity?

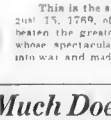
How Much Does Child Owe Parents in Later Life?
By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

JUST how much more a child owes to its parents



Beatrice Fairfax

When can he be drawn the line at contributing to the family income after he has reached an age to support himself? Many parents assume the attitude that because they have given a child life they own that life. The fact is that the vast majority of adults are either unwise or incompetent.

Unwise, because they do not look ahead to the time when they will be too old or too tired to work any more, and spend all their money as they go, hoping against hope for the "break" that will give them enough to live on "easy street" the rest of their lives.

The "breaks" do not come the ability to earn grows less and less, and finally they are forced to depend on their children or relatives for food and a roof over their heads.

But, how about the children? Should they be forced in turn to give all their money back to these shiftless elders, who have not learned to care for their own money? I have letters on my desk from boys and girls asking advice on this question. One boy says he works days and is trying to get a night education at night.

His present salary is very meager, and his folks demand the bulk of it, leaving him to struggle along on barely enough to pay carfare and lunches. In addition they mock at his ambitions and hopes for the future. He wants to know if he is justified in continuing to make his home with such parents, or should he consider his own interests for a few years, break away, and keep his money for himself.

Then arises the question—How

Household Hints

BORIC POWDER dusted on the feet and sprinkled in stockings tends to relieve fatigue.

Onions should be boiled in water that has been salted, otherwise they will lose much of their flavor.

After using an egg whisk, wash it thoroughly in cold water and put it in the oven for a short while. This will prevent it from rusting.

Sweeping brushes will last longer if dipped occasionally in hot water in which plenty of salt has been dissolved.

Heart and Home -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

He Went Too Far

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl of 17, a brunette and considered fairly good looking, only I am one of those heavy girls. I am a fun lover and have a fair abundance. Two weeks ago I was auto riding with a boy whom my parents know very well. I did not know him because I have been away to school. He was very good when in the car, but when we jaked and went for a walk he made me a very personal question, to which I instantly refused. A few nights later I met him and he said he was sorry for the day he had taken me riding and that to atone for it, he would not go out with me any more. WONDERING.

Dear Wondering—If the young man cannot be friends and respect your wishes while in your company, I think you should forget him.

She'd Die for Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in love with Joe, as I will call him. I'm 21 and I am 17. I love him with all my heart and I'd die for him. He hasn't been coming around lately and I think I know why. I went to the show with two girls and flirted with the ushers quite a bit. One was sitting with me and had his arm on the back of my chair when Joe came over to me. He was going to sit with me, but he changed his mind when he saw how I was acting. Don't you think there is some way I can make him understand how I feel toward him? I want to marry Joe. WANTS TO MARRY.

Dear Want to Marry. I don't doubt for a minute that you love the young man in question and would do anything to keep his love, but I think that you are a little bit of a flirt, and like to experience the admiration of other boys. It's only a very blind sort of faith that will believe words against the evidence of actions, and I suppose the young man thinks you are having a good time with him, as you did with the boys who mean nothing to you, and it hurts his vanity. There is really nothing to do but wait until matters clear themselves up, although I wouldn't count too much on me, my dear.

She Cares for Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a boy of 16 and have for the past year been keeping company with a girl I know cares for me very much. She left a few weeks ago for her vacation and has been sending letters to me, which, of course, I answered. Recently they have ceased coming, and I have written to her and she has not answered as yet. I care for her a great deal and would like your advice. LONESOME AND BLUE.

Dear Lonesome and Blue—If she's having a good time on her vacation, which, of course you want her to have, she probably hasn't much time to write. Why not be patient until she returns and then find out if her feeling for you has changed? You're both quite young and no serious damage has been done if you are obliged to look for a new girl friend, you know.

Be a Good Sport

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I would be very pleased if you could solve which seems to me a serious problem. While staying in my Dad's store I made a wager with a boy who works for my Dad. The winner of the wager is to be treated to a show in town. I lost the bet. I told him I'd let him know the week (making arrangements for an evening performance). Should I invite him? I say only both I prepare as to what I should do, and so I am a ring the novice of one who has solved baby's problem.

DOROTHY.

Dear Dorothy—A bet is a bet and of course you may question in your mind as to the propriety of keeping it, you should not have entered into it under the circumstances. I think you'd better be a "good sport" and discharge your obligation.

Miss Fairfax will be pleased to answer readers questions regarding matters which may be troubling them. Write on one side of the paper only.

Points on Etiquette -:- By Mrs. Beeckman

Trousseau Tea!

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please give me details of a trousseau tea?

J. E. B.

To a trousseau tea a bride-to-be invites only her closest girl friends. The tea is just like any other tea except that only a few are invited, and that she shows these friends her trousseau. The bride-to-be and her mother if she wishes, serve the food items that are customarily served at tea, lime-salmy, cake sandwiches or cinnamon toast or some other "bread" item, and small cakes or a large cake for the "sweets" course, with, of course, tea, or tea and coffee. After tea has been served the bride-to-be shows her friends the lovely details of her trousseau—undoubtedly to many enthusiastic "ah's" and "oh's."

Engagement Ring Finger

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly settle this argument? On which finger should an engagement ring be worn?

A READER.

On the third finger (the thumb not counted as a finger) of the left hand.

Symbolizing the Engagement

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly let me know whether or not it is correct for a girl to give her fiance a gift when she receives the ring? If so, what is the customary thing to give?

M. S.

It is correct for the girl to do this, if she wishes, but it is not customary. However, obviously, it is appropriate for her to wish to give a gift that also, like the ring, will be a symbol of their engagement. Cuff links, for instance, or a watch or chain or an evening set of links and studs.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

This Day in History

This is the anniversary of the birth August 15, 1769, of Napoleon, who at 21 had beaten the greatest generals of his time and whose spectacular ambition plunged Europe into war and made him an exile on St. Helena.

Sentiment Gains More Than Real Trade Conditions

Tangible Improvement in Business Awaited by Financiers

By M. S. Rukeyser

New York, Aug. 15—The mid-summer spell of weakness in the stock market constituted a recognition of the fact that since the late June recovery sentiment had improved without corresponding gains in actual business conditions.

After the market rally, prices for a time became overlooked and operators for the decline then seized a dramatic pretext for pressing again the market in the news of crop damage by the drought. Superficial speculators apparently are more rash in jumping to conclusions as to the permanent consequences of the drought than sobrer statisticians who recognize that the final camage will be mitigated by higher prices for the crops actually harvested.

M. S. Rukeyser

During the prolonged bull market, which culminated nearly 11 months ago, repeated excesses on the upside were punished to. It is illogical to assume that there will be no excesses on the down side. The stock market reflects emotion, as well as prudent analysis, and is perpetually prone to move too far in both directions.

Business at present is subnormal, and is at a low point as at any time since the recession started more than a year ago, but evidence that a turn is near is accumulating. There seems to be a growing disposition on the part of financiers to await the event of tangible improvement, rather than to run the risk of premature anticipation of the developments. For example, the artificial bullishness, stirred up a few weeks ago by optimistic brokerage, has proved a boomerang. It seemingly attracted weak buying, which has been used to stand the gaff of intermediate setbacks. Though the rally proved a false start, it may well be that time will prove that stocks were cheap for the cash buyer who is in position to withstand temporary vicissitudes.

Meantime, economic conditions are distinctly favorable for the purpose of bonds. Many competent observers believe that a substantial upturn in bond prices will precede a new bull market in stocks. Irrespective of that contingency the ups and downs of recent months have emphasized anew the desirability of a balanced investment-diet, consistent of reserves of cash short and long term bonds, preferred and common stock. Such a balance diet constitutes a hedge against the uncertainties of the business future.

This is obviously a miniature golf course year. The building of such playgrounds seems a permanent one, constitute America's most thriving industry. The National Lumber Bulletin estimates that the immediate lumber requirements for such courses is $1,000,000, and that ultimately the figure may be increased to $50,000,000. Fifteen thousand miniature courses have already been built, and many thousands more it is said, have been projected. It is evident recession has not curbed the play instincts of Americans.

Gradually the railroads are increasing the proportion of manufactured goods carried as freight. The class I railways last year got 83.1 per cent of its tonnage from products of mines and 2.46 per cent from manufactures and miscellaneous. The corresponding percentages for 1920 were 57 per cent and 29 per cent respectively.

As an antidote to incautious brokerage advices a firm of investment counsellors advises:

"There have been many pronouncements that with business in the trough of the depression there is a "big boom ahead."

"We sound a word of caution, hoping it may fall on the ears of conservative investors who are more interested in permanent gain than in speculative profits.

"Before you consider buying anything be certain that each security you now own is of the best and properly proportioned to your total fund. Buying more securities when those you own are weak is building your financial house on sand."

This is sound advice. It is futile to ask what is good in the market. Securities should be suitable as well as sound.

Tax Refund Urged for Torrington Co.

Washington, Aug. 15—The Treasury Department has recommended to the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation over-assessment allowances of $1,057,720 to the New York Life Insurance Co., New York, N. Y., and $96,820 to the Torrington Co., Torrington, Conn., for 1920. Torrington is listed on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Newsprint Mills' Production Given

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—The output of newsprint by Canadian Mills in July totaled 216,978 tons, a decrease of 12,067 tons from 229,045 produced in July last year, but an increase of 3344 tons over the 213,634 for June this year.

ADVERTISERS ARE SHOWING BEST RESULTS

By FRANK H. MELOON

Maintenance of current wage scales is generally by economists as more or less essential to business betterment. This was recognized at the Washington conference early in the year, when numerous leaders agreed in work against wage cuts. There have been numerous additions to the ranks of constructive leaders since the conference. The latest is Ralph G. Coburn, executive vice-president of General Foods, who says his corporation, largely represented in New England, is neither cutting nor expecting to consider any reduction in wages or salaries.

R. G. Coburn

Mr. Coburn's further statement that employment in the corporations' plants are approximately the normal, offers a note of cheer. The cheer would be greater if it were true at all other plants of course. An explanation of the General Foods activity is seen by many in the fact that 24 of its 30 products are nationally advertised. As previously pointed out in this column, the corporations that do big advertising are without exception showing the best results.

The first national and international advertiser was a greater Boston citizen, who assisted millions with his stove polish. Today, Edward Pinkham and King Gillette, inventor and founder of safety razor fame, also a Massachusetts man.

Crude rubber declines to the lowest price in history with December futures under 10 cts. a pound. Five years ago rubber was $1.25 a pound. Two decades ago before the automotive industry was really under way, 33 a pound was paid. Also the "buyers' strike" under way in the rubber industry, for the Rubber Manufacturers' Association says that consumption of crude rubber for the first seven months of 1930 was the lowest on record with the exception of last year.

The rubber companies were unlucky when crude rubber was high for planting extensively, but these plantations are now generally on the right side of the ledger to benefit stockholders. The current prices of rubber do not depress Thomas A. Edison's attempts to produce rubber from new sources, in the course of which he obtained sample woods from the Arnold Arboretum at Forest Hills. This is the world's largest collection of shrubs, etc.

Some will recall, however, that Mr. Edison's aim was to provide a source of rubber which would make us independent of foreign sources in the event of such a calamity as war. Hay fever sufferers, flocking for relief to Bethlehem, N. H., on their annual pilgrimage to this nonsneeze Mecca, were hopeful that hay fever would goldenrod would grow scarce after Mr. Edison found it a source of rubber production.

* * *

Reports on the smallness of the hay crop in New England will hardly cause anyone much interest among farmers. Before automobile vehicles displaced "Dobbin" it would have been a different story. As it is today, many farmers give away their hay crop to anyone who will cut and remove it, and some have difficulty in finding anyone who wants to do that much.

Unit Sales for Big Rubber Gain

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—William O'Neil, president of the General Tire & Rubber Co., of Akron, O., said dollar sales for the six months ended May 31, the first half of the company's fiscal year, were about 111 per cent below the same period of the previous year, but unit sales increased. He said net profits for the period covered the full year's dividend requirements on both the preferred and common stocks.

United Cigar Is Out of Red Ink

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—The United Cigar Stores of America and subsidiaries report combined net profit for the first half of $115,702, compared with a net loss of $252,051 in the first half of last year.

Milk Canner Has Larger Profits

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—Pet Milk Co. and subsidiaries had first half net profit of $398,232, equal to 84 cents a share, compared with $280,942, or 81 cents a share, in the first half last year.

Today's News in Wall Street

The "test period" of the stock market this week to date has so far resulted in nothing that could be construed as particularly decisive. Neither the bulls nor the bears have distinguished themselves by notable successes.

The stock market as a whole has not established itself in a trading range where accumulative investment buying has been allowed to proceed along what might be called normal levels. Wide price variations in so-called "blue chip" issues have taken place in some cases, and these could by no stretch of the imagination be linked in any way with investment buying.

Most orders for investment purposes appear to be placed at this time below the current market.

SHORT COVERING IS EXPLANATION

Short covering it was generally admitted accounted for the strength shown on Wednesday and yesterday. The size of the short interest is highly debated in the Street with claims that it amounts to record size being disputed.

One large wire house, which ordinarily is thoroughly representative of the country, reported that the short position of its customers is the largest in the firm's history, amounting to almost 150,000 shares.

Perhaps half of this, however, represents "selling against long holdings," other house quarters likewise reported their customers had a record amount of stock, with a corresponding increase in number of short-sellers, indicating in large public short interest.

BEAR INFLUENCE IS EXAGGERATED

However, this condition was not the case with still other houses, some of whom reported either comparatively small short positions among their customers or sizable short positions in concentrated form. This latter selling usually is shrewd and the most dangerous for the market since it represents action taken only upon extensive survey by powerful interests.

It is likely that the influence of the short interest, except for such rallies as just witnessed, is exaggerated.

NEW ERA SEEN FOR WARNER BROS.

One writer believes that a new era has commenced for Warner Bros. with the introduction of new banking sponsors. More powerful interests than those subtly described have at least "academic interest" in the company.

DIVIDEND ANSWERS

Answering current rumors regarding its dividend, North American Co.'s management declares the dividend has already been declared and is payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 8.

AMERICAN AGGIE HAS GOOD REPORT

One of the first reports of a fertilizer company for fiscal year ended June 30 to appear will be that of American Agricultural Chemical Co. in the next week or so. Reports of Virginia Carolina Chemical and International Agricultural Corp. also will be published shortly. All are likely to show better earnings than ruling had predicted. Of course, the usual strong balance sheets will be in order.

PIGMENTS DOUBLES PLANT CAPACITY

Commercial Pigments Corp., a subsidiary of Commercial Solvents Corp., is rushing work designed to double the capacity of its plant at Baltimore producing titanium dioxide, largely used in manufacture of paints and lacquers. Current output, say officials of Commercial Pigments Corp., is not sufficient to meet demand. Commercial Pigments is one of the two American manufacturers of titanium dioxide National Lead being the other.

Commercial Pigments Corp. owns a substantial interest in Travancore Minerals Co., Ltd., a British company holding extensive concessions in India for mining ilmenite, the chief material used in production of titanium dioxide.

UNITED CORP. IS IN GOOD DEMAND

Persistent demand for United Corporation during the past several days has been for the account of investment trusts and interests in the "Street" and reflects their views on the outlook for the company. Activities of United recently have been quiet in so far as new acquisitions are concerned, but the management has devoted considerable attention to developing the operating efficiency of units already under control. This should be reflected in the earnings of the company within the near future.

POWERFUL BEARS ON THE SIDELINES

Despite the fact that the public short interest in oil has developed large proportions, several of the more prominent bears are on the sidelines, having taken in most of their short lines earlier in the week. It is understood that the operators have been closely watching the activities of the bull group, but they prefer to pursue a waiting policy for the time being. This is due to the fact they do not know whether the "bull group" is more successful in attracting a public following than in the past. Should the public again fail to follow rallies, it is quite likely that bears will resume their activities in a more aggressive manner.

LIQUIDATION IN U. S. ALCOHOL

Persistent liquidation taking place in U. S. Industrial Alcohol reflects the unfavorable condition of the alcohol industry. Present alcohol prices are slightly under production costs and in view of the present stagnant demand for alcohol, there is little prospect for an improvement in prices. On the contrary, it is reported that another cut in prices may take place later in the year. In view of the sales agreement of the important alcohol companies, these reductions would be reflected in earnings. Forward sales of alcohol are guaranteed against price reductions but the companies would be forced to shoulder the burden in the event that another cut is instituted.

VANADIUM INCOME STATEMENT WAITED

Forthcoming income statement of Vanadium Corporation is awaited with considerable interest in financial circles, due to the knowledge that a substantial amount of the income during the first half of the year will represent non-recurring earnings. It is understood that the report will show net income equal to $3.30 a share. Of this amount $1.60 represents non-recurring income while the balance of $1.70 constitutes income from operations. This compares with $3.13 a share from operations last year, before a reduction of 43 per cent. Non-recurring income, it is understood, represents profit arising from the sale of securities held by the company in the first half of 1930.

Reid Re-Elected Torrington Head

Torrington, Ct., Aug. 15 (AP)—The stockholders of the Torrington Co. of Connecticut at their annual meeting re-elected W. R. Reid, president; E. A. Carter and W. E. Gilbert of Springfield, Mass., and Joseph Pernic of Bowmanville, Ontario, as members of the board of directors. The annual meeting of the Torrington Co. of Maine will be held next month.

CURB MARKET PRICES ARE IRREGULAR

New York, Aug. 15—Trading on the Curb was dreary today and prices shifted irregularly. Admiralty Corp. of Warner Pictures rights enlivened the tape somewhat, but transactions in the familiar leaders were exceedingly light.

Utilities displayed particular apathy and moved unevenly in a narrow range Oils were heavy and some of the prominent specialties, as well as the more active investment company shares, inclined toward easiness. Several new lows for the year resulted from moderate offerings.

Trading in Electric Bond & Share, which has been turning over briskly the week, dwindled, although efforts to mark the stock higher met with fair success during the rallies. The other utility holding company issues were dull and steady.

The market in the industrials was thin. Light sales of Anglo-Chilean Nitrate broke the price a couple of points, and the same was true of Waterproof, which dipped to a new 1930 low. Noranda and Technicolor eased.

Profit-taking appeared in Mead Johnson, but was readily absorbed. Coulden and Standard of Ohio were among the weak spots in the petroleum group, both touching new minimums for the year. Cities Service sagged.

Fresh Financing Sought by Cities

Beverly will receive bids until 5 p. m., Aug 21 for $100 000 loan dated Aug. 21 and maturing Jan. 30, 1931.

Meriden, Ct., will receive bids until 3:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) Aug. 20 for $45,000 4½ per cent Oregon Road bonds dated July 1, 1930, and payable 1931 to 1939. No bid for less than par and accrued interest will be accepted.

Newport, R. I., will receive bids until 5 p. m. (D. S. T.), Aug. 21 for $60,000 4½ per cent coupon or registered sewer bonds, Series "A," dated Sept. 1, 1930, and payable 1931 to 1952.

Bohack Sales Up

Sales of H. C. Bohack Co. for six months ended Aug. 2 totaled $15,611,000, against $13,997,662 in the same period of 1929, an increase of 11.53 per cent.

INSURANCE

Money Goes Back to Needy Families
Business Interests Secure Protection
U. S. Dominant in World's Business
Investment Value Now More Plain

By Frank F. Loomis

The main volume of insurance money seems to be going back to families that need it, although there is an increasing tendency to protect large estates and business interests whose success is largely dependent upon certain individuals.

America undoubtedly dominates the life insurance business of the world today. The amount in force in the United States and Canada is approximately three times as great as in all other countries of the globe combined, and the volume written in these countries during the past two years is probably in excess of the amount in force in the rest of the world put together.

The protection feature of course is the main incentive to purchase policy-holders, but investment value appeals to more and more people each year. The latest figures show that one's family is not only safeguarded financially, but that through this method he may provide his children and provide for a comfortable living in later years, whatever may happen, is a source of great satisfaction.

* * *

To provide for a child's future is the most important function of life insurance. In a pinch a mother may work in case of the premature death of the head of the family but not so in case of a small child; he must depend on the good will of others. It costs nearly $7,500 to raise the average child to age 18. Food represents $2265 of that sum and clothes over $3000.

It has been many years since a college education was regarded as the prerogative of the rich. The average man now looks upon it as a necessity for his child and undoubtedly the improved capacity to pay for such education would yield the larger opportunities resulting from adequate college training. If he had to pay the entire bill at one value more—the parent who is himself a college graduate or the parent who realizes the value of it when waging his stern fight for success without this educational foundation to his career.

Granting its desirability, there is only one problem involved and that is the financial ability to meet it. This problem is two-fold. Mainly, the parent's chief anxiety is the fear that he will not live until his boy or girl has reached the college age. The second consideration is that, in case of his survival until the child reaches college age, his financial circumstances may not then permit the outlay.

Both these problems find their solution in the educational endowment life insurance policy. The life insurance companies were quick to see a real need for this class of insurance on which the premiums depend upon the parent's age, the present age of the child and the college age determined upon for the annual college income to commence.

Should the child should not live to college age, the parent's deposits with interest are returned to the parent who insured. If the latter should die before the child, for whom the college policy is taken out—and the child itself should subsequently die before the college age—the parent would operate, and the benefits could be granted to another member of the family or revert to the estate of the parent.

Some companies issue a double annual income, that is, a triple annual income for four or five years, together with a monthly income for the same period. The annual income will pay for all college fees, books, etc., and the monthly income will provide the student's keep while at college.

For instance, a father, age 35, desiring to provide for a boy, now three, guaranteeing a college education at age 18. He could take out a policy paying $200 a year for four years covering college dues and an income of $70 per month for four years to cover the personal expenses of the student. This could be purchased for an annual deposit of about $257.30.

These deposits would carry annual dividend returns which could be used to reduce each deposit or allowed to accumulate to increase the college income or to pay the same income for a longer period than guaranteed.

If the parent insured should die after one deposit has been made to the life insurance company the payment of the income at the age specified for the child would be absolutely guaranteed.

PRICE TREND IS DOWNWARD IN BOSTON

Prices were worked to lower levels in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Stocks as a whole were above the low prices for the day. Changes on the downside ranged from 1 to 2 points or more. Investment trust issues moved in a narrow range.

Utilities Equities preferred sagged 2 points. Boston Elevated second preferred dropped over 2 points. Point losses were shown by Isle Royale, American Pneumatic second preferred, Bigelow Sanford, Mergenthaler and Torrington.

Aviation Securities Corporation and Eastern Gas Fuel each had losses of 1¾. Gillette dipped over 1 point. United Shoe moved fractionally lower. American Telephone gained 1%, General Electric around a point and Boston Utility Holdings was fractionally higher.

The current prices of 10¢ cents for cotton is the lowest since 1897. In 1902 the price touched 11 cents, and in 1908 10¼ cents. Previous to 1897 the low were: 1896, 8¾ cents; 1895, 9¼ cents, and in 1894, nine cents. The latter is believed to be the lowest on record.

Eastern division of Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. says growth has caused necessity of substantial change in prices of produce and fresh vegetables in its stores in recent weeks.

"We operate," it states, "on a very small margin of profit, made possible by great volume. Necessarily our prices follow wholesale prices closely. Unless the wholesale market materially changes, we do not anticipate any rise in retail prices. There have been some definite seasonal fluctuations in wholesale prices of green goods, but in most instances these have not been prolonged enough to affect our prices."

Leather shipments increased during the first six months this year above the last half of 1929, but were considerably below exports for the first half of 1929. Commerce Department says. Exports from Jan. 1 to June 30, totaled 119,813,424, against 319,504,097 for last half of 1929 and 223,434,125 in the first half of 1929.

United Gas Corp declared an initial quarterly dividend of $1.75 on 7 per cent preferred stock, payable Sept. 2 to stock of record Aug. 18.

NEWS OF Trends of the Day MAJOR New York List MARKETS

Bears Send Stocks Higher as They Turn to Buying

New York, Aug. 15—The bear traders sent stocks higher as they turned to buying in Wall st. transactions today. It was the third successive session in which the bearish contingent showed signs of becoming overcrowded and thrown into disorganization.

Trading deserted the bear cause right and left as the session progressed, and by late afternoon the bear retreat came close to a rout when U. S. Steel sold up 4 points and such issues as Westinghouse Electric, the old American Tobacco shares, Vanadium, Case, Columbian Carbon and Allied Chemical shot up about 5 to 10 points or more.

General Electric, American Can, American Telephone, and Public Service of New Jersey gained 3 to more than 4. Radio sold up about 2 points, in transactions of 5000 and 10,000 shares, as contrast had it that the report for the first half would appear in a day or so, making a little better showing than expected.

Morning losses of 1 to 5 points were almost completely erased. The market closed strong.

With some 180 stocks lending "fast" indicating that the lending demand is so great that borrowers are willing to forego interest, and with cash deposited with lenders, the bear faction appears to have attracted what is perhaps an unprecedented following.

Some brokers estimate that the short interest amounts to between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 shares.

While many observers insist that these estimates are too high, the feeling is that some unexpected piece of good news might create a sudden demand for some 4,000,000 shares to cover short contracts has definitely impaired bearish courage.

Some professional traders have begun to try for a quick turn on the upside, although there has been little or no inclination to organize any new bull campaign.

The market sold off about 1 to 5 points in quiet dealing the morning, but important shares held about steady, and before midday most of the losses had been regained, while a long list of issues sold up 1 to 3, with a few making wider gains.

TOBACCOS SHOW GAINS

Tobacco issues were strong, American Tobacco B shooting up more than 5 in speedy fashion. American Machine and Foundry, which makes tobacco machinery, traded for the first time this week, shooting up more than 20.

Shares making advances of about 2 to 3 points included U. S. Steel, American Can, Eastman Kodak, National Biscuit, Public Service of N. J., Int. Johns Manville, Air Reduction, and one of yesterday's weak features, Republic Steel Common.

Extensive rainfall, apparently breaking the drouth over some of the most seriously affected areas, was one of the most bullish developments of the day.

Such developments as unsatisfactory earnings reports and rumors of reductions in dividends appeared to have been pretty well discounted marketwise, although the coppers sagged somewhat in response to reports that both Kennecott and Anaconda may make further reductions.

The Business Week, which has been optimistic for several weeks, states:

"Sentiment in financial quarters continues to lag behind sentiment in commercial circles. Banking caution, not to say timidity, is retarding business. Too much importance is still being attached to items on the ticker tape; stock prices rise and fall in a purely professional market."

The Standard's weekly compilation of bank clearings shows an aggregate of $4,870,342,000, a decrease of 28.6 per cent from a year ago. Outside of New York there was a decrease of 23.3 per cent.

Columbia Gas & Electric Corp. and subsidiaries today reported June quarter net income of $5,977,132, equal to 38 cents a share on 11,870,498 common shares compared with $6,870,305, or 62 cents a share on 8,364,984 common shares in the like quarter last year.

NO DROUTH EFFECT

The International Paper and Power issues, which were acutely weak yesterday, firmed up after publication of the annual report showing a June quarter deficit of $1,300,000 after dividends.

Officials stated that the offices of the company that the drouth had not affected its hydro-electric properties.

Warner Bros. sold off 3 points after announcement of the issue of rights, then rallied.

Chrysler was steady to firm, in response to the favorable report, showing the dividend practically earned, and cash position further strengthened.

Corn and Wheat Prices Finish Up

Chicago, Aug. 15—Active short covering and commission house buying featured late trade in grains today. Corn led the upturn, closing 2 to 3¾c higher. Wheat advanced 1¼c, oats 1 to 1¼c and rye 1 to 2c.

A private crop report on corn influenced the buying movement. The report was to the effect that a survey of 11 of the principal corn states indicates a crop of 2,781,000,000 bushels from the government figures.

Closing prices:

Wheat—Sept. 91¼-¾, Dec. 96⅝-¾, March 101⅝-¾, May 104⅝-¼.

Corn—Sept. 98¾-¾, Dec. 94⅝-¾, March 96⅛-¼, May 88⅝-¾.

Lexington Water Earnings Larger

Lexington Water Company, a subsidiary of Community Water Service Company, reports gross revenues for the year ending June 30, 1930, of $329,859, as compared with $305,867 for the corresponding period of last year. After deductions for operating expenses, maintenance and taxes, including Federal, income tax, were made, there remained this year a balance of $188,803 as against a balance of $165,690 for last year.

Typical Girl Search Opens

and accomplishments in music, literature, art, athletics, domestic science and other women's activities will be factors.

All unmarried girls who are 21 years of age or who will have reached the age of 21 by midnight, Sept. 15 (this includes widows and divorced women), are eligible to enter the contest, if they are citizens of the United States and are permanent residents of New England.

No Exploitation

Somewhere in New England there is a lucky girl who will be given an award that means unequaled opportunity to her and that is the lending of a new world of experiences, pleasure and education.

All that is necessary to do is to send a photograph of yourself to the Typical Girl of New England Editor, Boston Evening American.

A small, clear snapshot or even a post card picture will do. Later in the contest The Evening American will take photographs at its own expense of the semi-finalists when such photographs are required for the final judgment.

Because The Evening American and Miss Swanson feel that this trip to Paris should stand as a forward step in education and experience to the winner, she will not be exploited or exhibited in any way on the journey from Boston to Paris and return. She will make the trip with the same personal freedom and security from annoyances she would enjoy if she were paying for her own passage.

Sails Dec. 12

THE TYPICAL GIRL OF NEW ENGLAND will sail from New York city, Dec. 12, on the elaborately beautiful new Transatlantic French liner Ile de France, and will return after a week in Paris on the liner Paris.

From the very beginning, the winner will find that everything has been done for her entertainment and comfort. When she arrives in New York she will be met by members of Miss Swanson's company and taken to see a private screening of "What a Widow!" Miss Swanson's latest picture, which will be shown at Loew's State Theater in Boston some time in the early part of next year.

She will meet at the Paramount studios many of the stars engaged in making pictures there. The New York studio is where Jack Oakie, Buddy Rogers, Maurice Chevalier, William Powell and many other Paramount luminaries do much of their work.

On the Ile de France, the liner selected by Miss Swanson to take THE TYPICAL GIRL to Paris, she will find every comfort and luxury. She will have a first class stateroom near other members of the party, the privacy of the beautiful cabins and the freedom of the many pleasures provided on the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique on this famous liner.

There will be the gymnasium and tennis courts, the deck games, walking, or pleasant hours in deck chairs.

She will disembark at Havre, where she will be met by Miss Swanson's representatives who have booked first class compartments on the swiftest de luxe Paris trains.

Will Live in Luxury

While in Paris she will have a private room at a leading hotel and will be presented with $200 to spend while in the city. Her hotel and living expenses will be deducted from this, but something will be left for shopping in the fascinating Rue de la Paix, for sightseeing on her own and for the theater.

The trip will be one of distinction and reserve, enjoyed as any debutante would enjoy a year abroad. Paris, except that the winner will have the advantage of having Miss Swanson's representatives as guides and her chaperon.

Although representatives of Miss Swanson will arrange trips to Paris motion picture studios and other places of interest if the winner desires she may pass most of her time in the art galleries at the numerous musicals, at the theater or visiting historic spots of the world's most interesting city.

It is to be a memorable trip for each of the 25 winners selected from various parts of the country. To further the feeling that this is more than an ordinary contest, Miss Swanson has arranged that the girls will sail at various times in group, not larger than four or five. Each group will then be much like a personally conducted tourist party in Paris.

There will be time to journey through famous streets, to enjoy the charm of ancient cathedrals, to glean somewhat of the learning and the art in libraries and galleries of Paris and to visit the municipal buildings of the city.

New York, Aug. 15—The listed bond market was dull and narrowly irregular today. Some realizing at the high prices recently established by railroad and utility bonds tended to offset gains by others in the group.

"Phipps," a One-Act Play, Heard This Afternoon at 3

Harvard summer school students in Prof. Frederick C. Packard's course on dramatic interpretation will present a play for radio listeners this afternoon at 3 o'clock over WRZA. "Phipps," a social comedy in one act by Stanley Houghton, is the vehicle which has been chosen for the matinee performance. Announcement of the broadcast was made yesterday from the Hasty Pudding Club at Cambridge where the play has been in rehearsal this week.

The broadcast will take place in the presence of the entire summer school class, officials at WRZA having agreed to waive the station rule which bars all but artists and announcers from the studio. All students in the course will thus be enabled to witness a practical application of many of the principles learned during the six weeks study.

account. A huge reward was offered for information leading to the return of the emeralds.

"We must imagine! I chance it, it, Kit? Oh—find the emeralds—gleaming things, all silver and sparkling stones. Step into the adventure that surrounds jewels like ripples circling a pebble.

"All right for a movie. Real life isn't so full of excitement."

"Yes, it is, sometimes! I notched this; that for a soldier of fortune — gallant d'Artagnan — you're sadly lame in your left arm."

She stopped all at once, eyes wide, lips apart. From where they looked she had a view of the extreme corner of the sundeck. She could see a man who had just stepped out of the rail there suddenly loose the muffler which rose out of his turned-up coat collar and, instead of doffing his cap—lift his head expectantly—half turn as if he were waiting.

Narrow, piercing eyes—a hooked beak of a nose—a fiery scratch across the forehead. The man of the Public Gardens in Halifax; the man who had run out of the side door of the gunroom and fired shots when the silence, more terrifying than either had settled down.

"Never claimed a halo, fair one. But why walk all over my imagination? Just because I won't puff it up—let it blow away—"

Kit went rambling on, laughing, teasing her, watching the bird islands sink into the gray and disappear.

He had not seen alarm sweep her face nor the tense scrutiny she turned upon the blurred figure below. Only when she made a sudden movement, brought both hands to her throat, did he turn an idle gaze upon the sun deck.

"Why, that's all it was!

'Cause if anything needs fixing —well, I'm the best you'll ever find."

"Hate yourself, don't you? But I'll remember that."

She returned his grin now, pretended to mind when he called her a land-lubber. But all the time her whole thought was on the sun deck—the man who stood there—another man who had come sauntering along.

"Follow you dear child with—" Kit Camp had seen him, too. Tris Millett! Pausing there beside the rail—posed man . . . Saying something . . .

Tris didn't know this man. At least he had said so. And how was it only that she believed this? And the scar-faced man had hurled out of the shadows at the Public Gardens just as Tris went into the lane. How could they have helped phasing each other?

Were they actually speaking together down there? Tris sending a quick glance everywhere—he would see them up here; in another instant he would see them.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

It was quite a disappointment to us Wednesday morning when we learned that the inimitable Arthur Bagley, that Master of the "Mike," who performs so interestingly and well on the Metropolitan Tower health period every morning, had been in Boston for a day and we were not informed of his presence.

Bagley is on his vacation, supposedly having left town with radio affairs; but apparently he couldn't keep away for his entire stay. He made reports from duties, for he got before the microphone up at WEEI in the morning, while his class was being conducted by his substitute, and said a few words of greeting to his numerous followers.

Dog-gone such luck, anyway! We wanted to get a picture of Arthur with some real old historical place for a background, and show it to the customers. Perhaps there is nothing more to it, but formation we received from there is in error, because only a few stand he once lived in these parts. It seems odd to us that for all of his being one of the most popular characters on the air we don't recall ever having seen a picture of him in the newspapers. If this item happens to come under the observation of the NBC publicity director, we hope he will take the hint and supply us with one of Bagley's latest likenesses.

Broadcast announcing certainly is getting to be a highly specialized business. Was a time when the announcer, or announcers of a studio met all comers, jumping from the announcement of a musical program, with Italian, French or German named pieces, which after a fashion he managed to acquaint the radio audience with all down the line of jazz to phonograph records and across lots to prize fights basketball, hockey and every other line of sports and human endeavor. And, we may add, most of them (the announcers) did surprisingly well.

But now all that is different. No announcer, in the green chain systems at least, is allowed to jump from prize fights to grand opera; the staff is divided into groups. The plan of the Columbia System provides five groups which cover the principal branches of entertainment and news events presentations; two men are now assigned to each of the following classifications: Operas, recitals, poetic readings, dance programs, script acts and dramatic features; sports events and news broadcasts; public events broadcasts. Surely a specialized business.

Wonder if we will be pardoned if we speak about Bill Whipple for a moment; not that he amounts to Hannah Cook, or probably ever shall. And why cares? But just the same as long as he's putting in a little time—when he'd a hanged sight rather lounge around and read and sleep. We go for a rifle-writing opportunity for a broadcast, perhaps it's only fair to tell the folks he will be on the air over WRZ-WRZA tonight at 7:45.

Nobody ever told him he was good, and how he gets the nerve to stand in front of a microphone and take up

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Bankers and Payrolls

This Might Help "Miss Columbia"

Credit—generous financial credit—with a dose of courage thrown in is the final key to the unemployment problem solution.

When the railroads went bad, the government gave them the Esch-Cummins act. It is now loaning money to the shipbuilding interests to revive the merchant marine. It subsidized the aviation industry. It gave the bankers the Federal Reserve act to save them from panics. It gave the Western farmers $250,000,000 worth of farm relief.

Now it feeds the independent manufacturers an indigestible mass of statistics on carloadings, altruistic efficiency methods and Pollyanna prophecies and expects them to swallow it, like it and grow fat.

It is unreasonable to expect our small manufacturers to keep up production and fill up the warehouses with manufactured goods for which there is no market.

Accordingly, let the Federal Reserve system put out money at low rates of interest to the community banks, to be loaned with manufactured articles as the collateral. The money so loaned could be designated for use for payroll purposes only. With the result that the manufacturers would call their employes back to work and thus would be creating a spending power which would consume the products in all branches of industry.

In theory man works for money. In practice he trades his labor for the labor of the other man. In olden days he exchanged corn for cotton. Both were the fruits of labor. Money is merely the handy tender for exchanging the products of toil. When man is not producing, he cannot buy. Put him to work, and he can.

The whole problem is in the hands of those who manage the nation's credit. To loan this credit for the relief of unemployment and the revival of good times possibly does not attract them so much as the loaning of money for speculation in the stock market or for gambling in the bonds of foreign nations out of which they get their bonuses and profits. But it is a more honorable and patriotic field for investment and will bring them a better peace of mind in the end.

When the bankers who control the pursestrings of the country throw off the psychology of fear and when they put the money to productive American enterprises, good times for all will come back with a rush. If they don't do it voluntarily, the government, through the Federal Reserve system, should show them the way.

Punishing Deliveries

A New Parking Problem and a Suggested Solution

Each day brings new problems, as officials wrestle with the snarl of downtown traffic.

Too long delayed, the effort to finally bring some sort of order out of chaos, and to be fair while doing it, to pedestrians, drivers and merchants, is bound to try the public's patience. But patience is vital, and we can at least have the satisfaction of knowing that something is really being done about it.

The latest problem to be solved is that of double-parking. Merchants and shippers now find it almost impossible to receive or to deliver merchandize in the business area without having their trucks tagged for parking violations.

Conditions are particularly aggravated, the Boston Evening American has found, upon such thoroughfares as Federal and Province streets. No other solution is in sight than the barring of parking on these streets, and upon all others where continuous deliveries of goods are necessary, beyond the time required for loading or unloading passengers or merchandise.

Merchants and delivery companies are helpless. Persistent tagging of their trucks for double-parking during delivery of goods is simply an obstruction to business and a needless annoyance. Drivers, unable to reach the curb because of parked automobiles already there, either have to park double or return their loads undelivered. The first brings the employers a criminal charge and the annoyance of a court appearance and fine. The alternative is a costly and unnecessary interference with normal business routine.

The Boston Evening American suggests intelligent action on this urgent problem by Mayor Curley and Traffic Commissioner Conry. Police department heads are carrying out their instructions to the best of their abilities. But neither Police Commissioner Hultman nor the men under him can be expected to accomplish miracles. Scolding them for the many complications which have arisen in this double-parking matter will not bring the required relief.

Foiling the Pickpocket

Caution All That's Needed

A correspondent pockets his pride to report that his pocket had been picked. He believes the city is infested by these gentry who are the butterflies of the underworld. He wants his experience to serve as a warning to others.

Boston, with its Tercentenary celebrations, its multitude of tourists and its national conventions, is a likely rendezvous for these petty cutpurses. They are the meanest of thieves; a thimbleful of honor or courage could not be collected from among the whole crew of them. They can thrive only on the incaution or unwatchfulness of the public.

Our Grand Climate

Invite Your Friends to Enjoy It

Mother Nature continues her kindnesses to New England with a lavish hand. While other sections of the country are scorched and burned, our fields and orchards bear fine crops, our valleys are green and virile and our woodlands show none of the ravages of heat and drouth.

Let us make the most of it.

Every citizen should constitute himself a committee of one to urge his friends to come at once to the most attractive vacation land on the Continent.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH HER?

We only know that our beautiful Miss Columbia is ill. Something is wrong with her "internal prosperity," and Uncle Sam wonders what it is. Columbia's doctor, adviser and friend, "Big Business," doesn't know what's the matter, either. Do you? We don't know how long she will be sick, but we do know that she will recover. There is comfort in that. [See Editorial.]

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

The Ditch

YOU HEAR IT long before you catch its glimmer through the pines.

Not a loud sound — just a soft, busy murmuring, nearly lost in the chattering of squirrels, the squawking of jays, the bustle of the wind through the branches. A quiet sound, but your heart lifts to it.

Elsie Robinson

You have been on the trail since morning. Throat and hair are caked with dust—flesh scored scarlet with the long lashing of the heat. Your feet move stiffly—wooden stumps in the rancid leather of your high boots. Indeed, all your body feels wooden —drained of sap and emotion. But now, at that sound, you quicken—shoulder hurriedly through chaparral and wild gooseberry—cross a wide open space where tar weed is thickening to blossom and the air smells of cinnamon and dried apples. Then, suddenly, in the strong blue shadow of the ball pines, you come upon it.

Clear and deep and quiet, between its straight walls, the Ditch flows in a moving band of crystal. No bubble and splash and spray here—no tumbling wet turmoil through fern root and sedge. For the Ditch is not a scatter-brained mountain brook. It has work to do. Mile upon thirsty mile it flows, cold and strong and pure, down from the summit, through deer brush and manzanita, past pine and oak and alder, giving its strength to orchard and vineyard and home.

This is not merely water, this quiet brightness, pouring itself through the splintering, saffron sunshine and scented violet shade. This is Life. Life for man and bee and growing things.

In all that wide drama of peak and forest, green lowlands, burning desert—with the tame life and the wild life moving about on their various business—there is nothing more important than the Ditch. It is the true settler of frontiers. Without it man could not break the wilderness. Scarcely seen, scarcely heard, it still decides human destiny.

There are lives like that . . . plain lives without dash or sparkle; gentle lives that never make the headlines. Yet, they are to other lives what the Ditch is to the ranges and ranches and desert homesteads. Other lives, fierce and colorful, or shy and weak, drink of their deep strength, or rest in their cool serenity. Quietly they pass through the world, giving their abundance to all who need. And often—how often!—those who take, forget. As the orchards and the beasts forget the source of their refreshment. But the Ditch goes on—and these simple lives go on—Living Water—drawing their pure, deep beauty from some far, stainless Source.

New Sources of Energy

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

IF, AS scientists now prophesy, the coal supply of the world will be completely exhausted in a few centuries, it should be the governments of the world to initiate exhaustive scientific investigations looking toward the discovery and exploitation of new sources of power.

When Sir William Ramsay, in 1910, predicted that Great Britain's supply of coal would be exhausted in 175 years, his words detonated loudly in the ears of British statesmen.

Since that time various English bodies and commissions have studied many other possible sources of power, which could be made available for commercial purposes.

Among the principal possibilities considered are: The rise and fall of the tides, energy sources in wind velocity and the fall of water, the heat contained in the earth's interior, the chemical energy derived from solar rays in vegetation, the hidden energies stored up in matter, and even the orbital motion and rotary spin of the earth.

It is scarcely to be doubted, although there are numerous fanciful theorists who deny it, that the temperature of the earth steadily increases as we penetrate from the surface toward the interior.

In the Village Deep Mine in Johannesburg, South Africa, the circulating air at a depth of 7000 feet becomes unbearingly hot.

The question naturally arises: How deep shall we be able to sink mine shafts, and enable man, by protective scientific apparel, to mine coal or otherwise labor there?

Great accomplishments have already been recorded in that direction during the past century. Elaborate and efficient machinery safety devices of many sorts, now enable man to work in the earth's interior at depths hitherto believed to be impossible.

Science will doubtless overcome these difficulties in the future, as they arise.

Another century, perhaps, will show mine shafts sunk to from five to ten times the present greatest depths. The internal heat will be needed to supply the energy ones furnished by coal.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

IF A PIECE cut from the hind end of a Planarian worm regenerates a new head, a gullet and a mouth and protrusible proboscis will grow where, in these curious creatures, they ought to be, i.e., in the middle of the piece; but if for any reason no head is produced, no gullet or proboscis will be formed; the new head evidently organized the old tissues of the rest of the piece.

Like the dorsal top, "it makes things make themselves."

In vertebrates the dorsal lip region may thus be called the organizer, for through its action the embryo first becomes truly organized.

Before this moment the developing egg behaved as a whole; from now on, until unity is again re-established by outgrowing nerve-fibres and circulating blood, it is a mosaic of parts, each working out its own destiny and fitted together like a chemical jigsaw puzzle.

In this second stage the local independence of each part is amazingly complete. Limb-buds grafted on to back or flank produce limbs; a newt embryo whose tail-bud is cut off remains forever tailless; if the embryo be cut in half when the nervous system first become visible, there is no readjustment and no regeneration beyond the mere healing of the wound-surface—the front half develops into head and gill-region, the hind half into trunk and tail.

Small bits of a chick embryo can be cut off and grafted on to the embryonic membranes of another egg, which is then sealed up aseptically. The grafts are nourished by the blood vessels of the membrane, but are not in contact with the host-embryo.

And yet in these surroundings they continue their differentiation as if at home: tiny limb bud grows into well-proportioned limb and eye rudiment becomes eye—an eye attached to nothing! the chick's embryonic kidney normally degenerates before hatching and is replaced by the definite kidney, which develops farther back in the body.

The rudiment of the embryonic kidney grafted onto another egg not only differentiates to form characteristic tubules, but degenerates after the correct lapse of time. It is like a chemical clockwork which, being set, grinds out its result and can do no other.

Even if organ rudiments (like the early optic cup) are cultivated in tissue culture they will still achieve their characteristic differentiation within their glass prison as if in the body. The development of such grafted and tissue-cultured rudiments, however, is often not typical as regards their precise shape, for this depends on purely mechanical, not on chemical considerations.

But the chemical differentiation runs on unaffected, so that, in spite of mechanical distortions, all the characteristic kinds of tissue are produced.

It is often asserted by vitalists that the capacity for regulation —the adaptive adjustment of parts to whole—is a peculiar and universal character of life. Vertebrate development is proof to the contrary. We all of us pass through a stage in which we are little more than a chemical mosaic.

During this stage our separate parts are not bound together by any unifying principle, for if one is removed it is not replaced; if one is isolated it can still pursue its differentiation; if the pieces of the mosaic are rearranged each still continues its predestined development.

The arrangement of the pieces is an outcome of what happened in the stage before; it is without influence on the further differentiation.

But for the full intricacy of the chemical mosaic to come into being time is needed.

Paris and the Golden Applesauce

By ARTHUR BAER

PARIS STEPS to the battle-scared front with some more fashions that will fit anything but the human figure.

We think we would look better if Paris turned over the fashions to the Swiss toy-makers.

The latest indictment is the hourglass figure. Which means wide at the top, narrow at the middle and wide again at the base.

That's figure. But it ain't a human figure.

We don't know why they call it the hourglass, either. You cannot get one of those figures in 60 minutes.

If you wanted to tell time by your silhouette it would be much easier for most dowagers to look like the old town clock.

Can you imagine a colonial dame saying to Smithkins, the butler, "Look at my shadow and tell me what time it is, will you, Smithky, old spud?"

Smithkins turns his halibut-eyes on the shadow and sees that the outlines of the hips are not registered with orthodox Greenwich time.

So Smithkins says, "Sorry, my lady, but you are 15 minutes slow. And your waist is casting too big a shadow."

My lady observes in perfect tempo, "So my shadow is bigger? Well, that's all right. I'm saving daylight this week."

You stand an hourglass on its head every 60 minutes.

And furthermore, an hourglass is stuffed with sand.

We all want to be stylish. But sand is an awful diet.

You might start out to look like an hourglass and wind up resembling a sand barge.

We know that the hourglass figure was quite esprit d'corps in the gay nineties. But it was accompanied by muttonchop sleeves, choked necks and bustles. Also stays and corsets.

Corsets haven't been seen in these sections of the big timber since Hector grabbed those dog biscuits.

We pity the stouts who are going to try for the hourglass contours. And we advise the ladies to keep the figures that nature and home cooking gave them.

McIntyre Abroad

By O. O. McINTYRE

BREMEN—This was the last stop before shoving off in the astest Atlantic liner "Europa," for New York. Bremen is a cultivated patrician-like city with ancient moats entwining it in a garland of green. The rhythm of medieval life has changed, but the melody is unspoiled. It suggests the sturdy tick of a clock.

I thought—and I bet most of you do too—boats sailed directly from Bremen. By mere lucky chance I learned while rubbernecking around the sailing point was Bremenhaven, a fast hour's motor drive. We made the dock by an eyelash and I'm still afraid to count the baggage.

Winches whirred and ropes were being cast off when we galloped up the gangplank, and even so Billy, the fathead, tried further to delay things by lazily taking in some fascinating smell en route. The yank I gave him! I heard Germans were the most persistent farewell wavers of all, and it's no exaggeration.

From the time the schnelldampfer—Heinie for fast boat—nosed out to sea until Eremerhaven was a speck, handkerchiefs fluttered. The liner band played "Home, Sweet Home," and I somehow stood gazing out a porthole on the verge of a snuffle. "Aufwiedersehn," to me, is the most beautiful of all farewells.

Will Hogg and I hate good-byes, so we parted with a quick "So long!" He and his sister are on their way across Russia. Last year Will toured South America with Irvin Cobb. I asked him how I compared with Irvin as a traveler. "Fine," he replied, and added, I think unnecessarily, "I don't know which is the nuttier."

The "Europa" rises 14 stories with rivets the size of pie plates. Its Commodore, N. Johnsen, sailed before the mast on the Chinese coast and is now a greybeard with leathery cheeks. Passengers are listed as "Herr," "Frau" or "Fraulein" as the case may be. "Herr Sing Toy Hop" won a sly giggle from me.

Most voyagers appear to be retired German-Americans on visit to the Fatherland and a number suggest the late Sam Bernard's version of "The Rich Mr. Hoggenheimer." The bar is a whirligig of tall pilseners, goose-necked pipes and a dispason of thick "Yah, yah, yahs!"

For 10 days I've been out of touch with my world, not having seen an English newspaper. So I snatched up the ship's daily—"Lloyd Post"—with fervor. The leading items were the Bambino smacked the apple over the garden wall for a circuit and two seditionists were arrested in San Luis Potosi. If I had been away 20 years I cannot think up two items interesting me less.

Among passengers is Mrs. Robert Edgar of Scranton, returning from a honeymoon with her newspaperman husband. She is experimenting to keep an orchid corsage fresh throughout the voyage. This has been done by placing orchids each night in water mixed with aspirin. It is a trick discovered by Ganna Walska, whom Phil Baker calls "The Phantom of the Opera," and who feels declasse without orchids anywhere.

The steward came for tickets and after a snappy heel click announced that the same quarters had recently been occupied by Miss Ethel Barrymore. I tried to look profoundly impressed, but shocked him. I think by suddenly inquiring if sauerkraut happened to be on the menu, and if not how did one get it?

But the high spot of this cruise was a summons to the purser's office for a $100 refund overpaid the Berlin booking office. That's picking it out of thin air. You have no notion how big $100 looks after two months in Europe. If I owned a steamship line I'd overcharge everybody and return it on the way home. It would make not only contented customers, but boom her receipts.
